Another Rig Upsets

Umpteenth Time

The force of momentum won another battle at the foot of the Route 30 hill in Chester this morning at 4 when this tractor-trailer rig toppled on its side in a futile attempt to make a turn after its brakes apparently failed.

Gilbert Humbert, 23, of Uniontown, driver of the rig loaded with bottles, escaped injury as the cab and trailer slammed over on its side in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chaney at 8th St. and Carolina Ave.

"The brakes went out," Humbert said this morning, repeating a long familiar explanation of many similar mishaps at the intersection in past years.

He was headed from Uniontown to Bowling Green with the

Salem Car's 5 Occupants Hurt In Crash

Salineville Youth Injured In Another County Accident

Five members of a Salem family were injured in a two-car crash near Washingtonville and a Salineville area youth was hurt in a one-car mishap near Gavers Friday night, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

James McKarns, 18, of Salineville R. D. 2 suffered bruises of the back when his 1961 convertible veered off Route 518 about two miles east of Gavers last night at 9:55, went down an embankment and struck a tree, demolishing the auto, officers said.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Graybeal of Salem and their three sons were injured when their car crashed into the rear of one operated by Jesse Truman McHenry of East Palestine at 10:30 p.m. on Route 14-A just east of Washingtonville.

Officers said McHenry, 58, of 51 W. North Ave., East Palestine, headed west, made a turn into a private drive, and his car was rammed from behind by the other, operated by Graybeal, 35. Taken to Salem City Hospital were Graybeal, who suffered a fractured collarbone; Gladys Graybeal, 36, abrasions of the face and arms; Donald Graybeal, 9, possible concussion and body abrasions; Richard Graybeal, 11, a bruise of the skull, and Allen Graybeal, 8, a cut of the head. Graybeal was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance. The front of his auto was demolished, while the rear of McHenry's car received considerable damage, the patrol said.

2 Women And Boy Injured At Newell

Two New Castle women and a 3-year-old boy were injured, none seriously, in a two-car crash Friday night on Route 66 in Newell. In another mishap investigated by Hancock County sheriff's deputies, a Newell motorist was cited after hitting a parked car on Grant St.

The crash which injured the New Castle trio occurred when Charles T. Sloan of Pennsylvania rammed the rear of the halted car of Andrew M. Hruska, 34, of New Castle on Washington St., the section of Route 66 which passes through Newell.

Three passengers in the New Castle man's car were injured, including Frances G. Hruska, 32, injured neck; Mrs. Marion Pagilong, 24, whiplash injury of the neck, and Eugene Paul Pagilong, 3, bruises and abrasions of the right lower chest.

They were treated at City Hospital following the crash at 7:50. Deputies said the Hruska auto was halted in a lane of traffic

Compromise Foreign Aid Bill Looms

Senate And House Versions Conflict Sharply On Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration forces hope to put together again the pieces of President Kennedy's foreign aid program when the Senate and House blend into a compromise the sharply conflicting versions of the bill.

Kennedy, who campaigned long and hard for the program, got substantially what he asked for from the Senate Friday night. It approved a measure providing for a five-year, $8 billion lending program to be financed by borrowing from the Treasury rather than by annual congressional appropriations.

But the House, a little earlier, passed a bill stripped of the borrowing authority and limiting the program to one year with $1.2 billion for loans this year to be provided by congressional appropriation. Kennedy considers the powers eliminated by the House to be essential to the success of the overseas development program. And administration leaders will try to get them for him when representatives of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and the House Foreign Affairs Committee confer next week to hammer out a compromise of their two versions.

There was considerable speculation that the compromise would give the President three years of lending authority instead of the five he asked, and the authority to borrow from the Treasury.

House conferees, for the most part, are regarded as friendly to the Kennedy approach, raising administration hopes it can come out of the conference with a two or three-year borrowing authority.

The Senate measure provides $4,076,500,000 for the over-all program, including $1,187,000,000 for the first year's long-range lending, plus authority for the President to borrow $1.7 billion in each of the next four years.

The House passed, 287 to 140, a bill carrying $4,368,500,000 for its one year program, including loans and grants and covering military aid as well as economic.

Hot 88 Seen Today And Showers Tonight

The Ohio weatherman said the high range this afternoon will be 83-88 and tonight's low 60 to 65. The downtown had a low of 62 this morning.

The Stratton Dam recorded a torrid 87 as Friday's high with a low of 68.

Sunday will not be as warm and there is a chance of a few showers.

U.S. Battle Unit Heads For Berlin

Kennedy's Order; Will Pass Through East Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 1,500-man battle group, under orders from President Kennedy, moved out from its base early today in a truck convoy headed through Soviet-dominated East Germany to reinforce the Allied garrison of West Berlin.

The Pentagon said the 1st Battle Group, 18th Infantry Regiment of the 8th Infantry Division climbed into trucks with full battle equipment at its base in Sandhofen, near Mannheim in West Germany.

The 1st Battle Group is commanded by Col. Glover S. Johns Jr.

Kennedy issued the order to reinforce the Berlin garrison Friday after conferring with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other advisers.

The Allied garrison in the Red-surrounded city of West Berlin numbers about 11,000 men, of whom 5,000 are Americans. The size of the U.S. buildup would put it in the category of a token expansion.

The brief announcement of the increase, read by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, said:

"In view of recent developments, including the movement of East German military forces into East Berlin, the President has directed an appropriate increase in the U.S. garrison in Berlin."

"A battle group of approximately 1,500 men will proceed by way of the Helmstedt-Berlin Autobahn, arriving there on Sunday."

This autobahn or superhighway route will take them about 110 miles through Communist East Germany, many of whose residents have been restless under Red rule.

With the battle group goes a platoon of three M41 light tanks. Such a reinforced battle group, a Pentagon spokesman said, would require more than 100 trucks to move the men, weapons, supplies and equipment—in addition to the tanks, jeeps and other vehicles.

Ex-Suitor Shoots Bride Then Himself

WELLSBURG — Airman Carl Scott and his bride had been scheduled to leave today for his new base at Lockbourne, in Columbus.

But his bride of nine days lies in "critical" condition in Wheeling Hospital, suffering from two gunshot wounds of the head inflicted Friday afternoon by a disappointed suitor who then attempted suicide.

Brooke County Sheriff Russ Craft said that Richard Davis, 25, shot the bride and then put the revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger. He is also in "critical" condition.

Mrs. Ray Andrews, mother of Mrs. Bonnie Scott, 19, said Davis came to her house and talked with Mrs. Scott for about 40 minutes, inquiring why she had married Airman Scott, who is on furlough from the Air Force.

Davis suddenly brandished a .22-caliber revolver and shot Mrs. Scott then turned the gun on himself, the sheriff added.

Mrs. Andrews said Davis had previously dated Mrs. Scott. He arrived at the home at 12:30 p.m., saying "I want to talk with Bonnie."

Three other witnesses, including the bridegroom, saw the double shooting at 1:14 p.m. They were the two brothers of the bride, Ray and Frank. Airman Scott was on furlough from Winchester, Va.

'No Retreat,' Johnson Says

BERLIN (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson flew into Germany today declaring the United States does not intend to retreat in the face of Communist threats in Berlin.

Johnson made the statement as he stopped off in the West German capital of Bonn to confer with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer before pushing on to Berlin.

While he was flying across the Atlantic the United States rushed fresh troops to beef up Allied forces in the Communist-ringed West Berlin.

Britain ordered in troop carriers and scout cars, but the war office said it had not yet decided whether to increase the British troop garrison in Berlin.

"We are united in America, regardless of parties and regardless of regions, in our concern for the German people in their present ordeal," Johnson said in a statement while about 1,000 spectators cheered.

Johnson said President Kennedy and the American people are "determined to fulfill all our obligations and to honor all our commitments."

"We are not provocative, neither are we frightened," Johnson declared. "The American people have no genius for retreat, and we do not intend to retreat now."

Adenauer met Johnson and his party at Bonn's airport. The two will confer briefly on steps to counter the Red squeeze on Berlin before going on to the divided city.

A tumultuous welcome awaited Johnson from 2½ million West Berliners, heartened by the Big Three move to bolster their garrisons in the divided city.

President Kennedy ordered a crack U.S. battle group from Mannheim to roll into West Berlin Sunday to bolster the 5,000-man American force already stationed there.

The 1st Battle Group of the 8th Infantry Division moved out of its Sandhofen base near Mannheim at dawn and began heading through 110 miles of Red-dominated East Germany to Berlin.

Men and vehicles to strengthen the British Berlin brigade were expected to begin arriving by train later today. The French were expected to take similar action.

The Allied garrison in West Berlin now totals about 11,000 men and the size of the U.S. buildup would put it in the category of a token expansion. It was not immediately known how many men the British and French are sending in.

In the Red-controlled part of the divided city, the Communist press reported about 10,000 youths had volunteered for military service to strengthen East Germany's 110,000-man army.

Johnson carried a message from Kennedy to West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt who declared earlier this week that the West should hit back with political action as well as words against the Red squeeze on East German travel to West Berlin.

Brandt said he was delighted Kennedy had decided to send the administration's No. 2 man for a first-hand look at this crisis-ridden city and called on West Berliners to give the vice president a warm welcome.

"The visit will give the vice president a unique opportunity to

'Defensive' Move Called Temporary

Would End With Peace Treaty, Note From Reds Hints

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government categorically rejected today the U.S. protest against closing the frontier between East and West Berlin and indicated the barrier is likely to stay there until a new Berlin arrangement is made.

The note was a swift reply to the protest made two days ago by the United States—along with Britain and France—against East Germany's action in closing the Berlin border.

The note said "defensive measures" on the border are for a temporary period. They presumably would end with the conclusion of a peace treaty.

Premier Khrushchev has said he will sign a peace treaty with East Germany with or without approval of the Western powers.

Blame for "certain temporary inconveniences for the city's population" was placed on the Western allied occupation authorities and with Germany.

"The Soviet government has repeatedly emphasized that the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany and the normalization on such a basis of the situation in West Berlin will not infringe the interests of any of the parties and will contribute to the cause of peace and the security of all peoples," the note said. "To this end, it appeals to the U.S. government also."

The Western allies in identical notes Wednesday asserted the Berlin border closure was a "flagrant and particularly serious violation" of their occupation rights. They said the action "can only increase existing tension and dangers."

The dispatch of East German troops into East Berlin and the intervention of the Communist military alliance were both termed illegal.

"By the very admission of the East German authorities, the measures which have just been taken are motivated by the fact that an ever-increasing number of inhabitants of East Germany wish to leave this territory," the notes said.

The West demanded that the Soviet Union "put an end to these illegal measures."

2 Are Killed, 2 Safe When B47 Crashes

HASTY, Colo. (AP) — An Air Force B47 jet bomber crashed in a pasture on the southeastern Colorado plains just after midnight, killing two airmen.

The two other occupants of the $3-million four-engine jet parachuted from the plane and landed with minor injuries in wheatfields near the John Martin reservoir on the Arkansas River.

Names of the four were not released immediately.

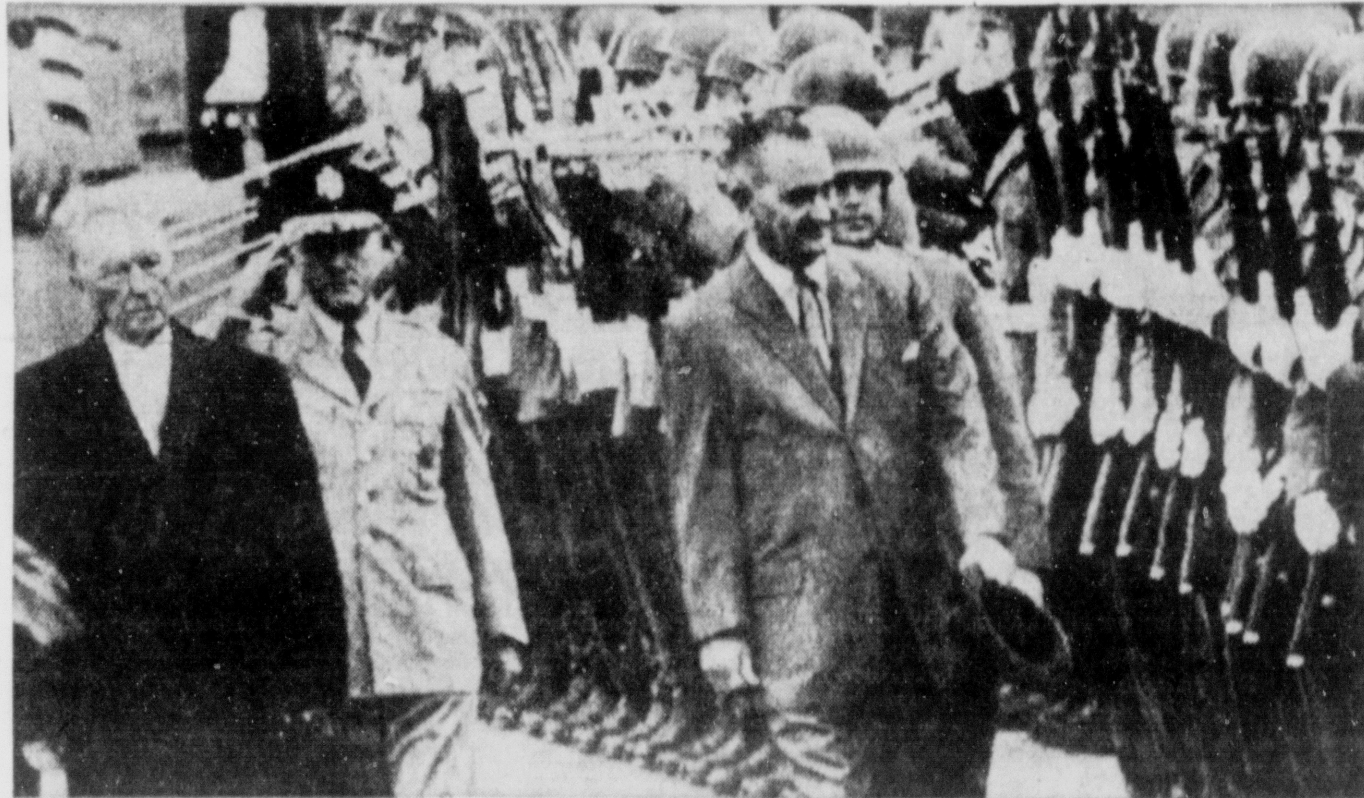

The plane was from Davis Monthan Air Force Base at Tucson, Ariz. It crashed at 12:15 a.m. just after completing a high-altitude simulated bomb release.

Residents in the area near the Colorado-Kansas border said they saw three brilliant flashes just before the crash. Lowry AFB in Denver said it had received no information the plane was in difficulty prior to the accident.

2-Car Crash Fatal To 6, 5 In Family

UPPER SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A broadside collision at a rural crossroad Friday killed all six persons in two cars, including five members of one family.

It happened at the intersection of a northern Wyandot County road and Ohio 509, about two miles west of McCutchenville in north central Ohio.

Killed in their 1957 model station wagon were Don M. Harvey, 57, of Kenton, identified as the driver; his wife, Ethel M., 55; their son, Frank G., 30, who lived at home; and the Harvey couple's grandchildren, Linda Nowland, 11, and her sister, Mary, 7, also of Kenton.

The other driver, Claude (Billy Joe) Hufford, 19, of nearby Carey, probably drowned, said Coroner H. Hathaway. Hufford, married but driving alone, was found face down in a small stream that runs along a ditch in which both cars came to rest.

Dr. Hathaway said Hufford's body bore no visible signs of serious injury.

Sheriff's deputies said two witnesses stated that Hufford passed them at high speed just before the accident. His 1950 model auto, westbound on Ohio 509, struck the Harvey car broadside as it pulled into his path from the county road, deputies said.

The Goff Funeral Home at Carey, where the bodies of two victims were taken, said the Harveys were en route from Kenton to Erie, Pa.

DUGALD, Man. (AP)—Antoine Walley, 31, St. Boniface, Man., and his six young children were killed Friday night when their automobile and an express train collided at a crossing near this station 18 miles east of Winnipeg. No one in the train was hurt.

Franklin Local's Parents May Sue Against Merger

Franklin Local school district residents indicated today they may seek a court order to halt the merger of the district with that of Southern Local, and the County Election Board has asked Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw to untangle a series of problems created by the establishment of the new district by the County Board of Education.

The county school board Tuesday night unanimously approved the merger of the Franklin Local district to Southern Local and appointed a new five-man Board of Education for the expanded system.

At the same time, it refused to consider a petition from Franklin parents asking their area be merged with three Carroll County districts. Franklin Local has been an eight-year district, operating one school at Summitville. Southern Local operates Salineville High School, along with elementary schools at Highlandtown, Salineville, Wayne and No. 16. Fred H. Johnson of Summitville, the lone spokesman for the Franklin at the county board's meeting, said the district will take some action before the merger becomes effective about mid-September. The attempt to halt the merger

Court Acquits Woman In Traffic Case

A Beaver woman was acquitted Friday of "knowingly permitting" an unlicensed driver to operate her car following a lengthy hearing in Municipal Court on the charge filed by police as the aftermath of a crash Aug. 10 in which the car she owned struck two East End homes.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff found Mrs. Edith Marie Freeman not guilty after hearing the testimony of Police Lt. Thomas A. Walker, the only witness to take the stand.

Under cross-examination by Mrs. Freeman's counsel, Atty. George Aronson, Lt. Walker admitted police had made no check to determine whether George Freeman, identified by police as driver of the car and ex-husband of the defendant, had a license to drive other than the statement he made to officers after the crash.

Mrs. Freeman entered a plea of innocent yesterday after Judge Chertoff denied a defense motion for dismissal.

Mrs. Freeman was arrested by police Sunday night when she came to East Liverpool to obtain her car, which had been impounded by police.

Freeman walked away from police headquarters following her arrest Aug. 10 after the auto he was driving struck two homes on Mapletree St. when he lost control while swerving to avoid a collision with an unidentified racing companion.

His escape occurred during a change in turns as officers also were responding to a fight call, police said.

Charges of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and driving without a license have been filed against Freeman and warrants have been issued for his arrest.

Confident Living

By Norman Vincent Peale

A Life Full Of Joy

Many times I publicly have deplored the way so many people in the age groups between 40 and 70, and sometimes even people not yet 40, glumly complain that they are "getting on" and therefore their best years are of course behind them — and all that sad talk. I have insisted that aging is mostly an attitude of mind. But maybe I haven't always sounded as convinced of this as I thought. For a lady in Nova Scotia has written to me saying, "You know, you sometimes talk as though 60 years of age was old. Why, goodness, boy! I am 81 —" and she goes on to give me a little object lesson in how full of joy and purpose life can be for human beings in their eighties.

"My husband is 84," she writes, "and here he is at 10:45 p. m. whacking at a typewriter with his two index fingers trying to finish up a letter to his sister. Now just to let you know that I am getting better, more vital and joyous every day, I'll tell you what I did today — not to show you how smart I am, but to show how good God is to us in return for our sometimes weak faith."

"WE GOT UP not too early, seeing it was Sunday — about 9 o'clock. Read your affirmations in the chapter on Health Through Positive Thinking before getting up. Then by the time I had done some breathing exercises and had a bath, Charles had breakfast ready. Right after breakfast we read one of your Thought Conditioners and reread those health affirmations. Then we washed the dishes and straightened up the house. Soon my son and daughter-in-law and 3-year-old grand-daughter arrived. I had to play church with the child until it was time to get ready for real church."

"Well, we heard a grand sermon and stayed to chat with some friends. About one o'clock we got home. Had lunch, rested a bit, read over the affirmations and then got ready to go to our afternoon service — where I am organist and director of a 25-member junior choir, gowned and all, ages from about 10 to 18. Such wonderful kids! We had a grand service and a strong sermon."

"Got home, had supper, rested a bit. Then I wrote for the daily paper in New Glasgow an account of a party the young people's society had had on Friday night. Now it's nearly 11 and I am relaxing by writing to you."

Then the lady refers to my having written somewhere that among those who enjoy life the most you find a good many who have very little economic security — who are always, so to speak, just one step ahead of the sheriff.

"Well," she says, "if that doesn't describe me! I've always been so extravagant in wanting to give. I run into debt because I just can't help buying books and music for girls who have good voices or giving them a few chances to take singing lessons from real teachers. I've been without one penny so many times this month. I kept wondering how God would help me out and it has been really marvelous how a few dollars here and a few there have enabled me to get by. But I have that throbbing sense of the joy of life and I find a lot of fun even in the penniless moments."

IF WE COULD tabulate the characteristics of those men and women who are full of energy and joy in their eighties and nineties, I think we would find in almost all cases these four things:

They are people thankful for their blessings. ("How good God is to us," my Nova Scotia friend observes, "in return for our sometimes weak faith.")

They are people who respect and care for their bodies and their minds. They avoid excesses; do not drive themselves too hard; get enough sleep; satisfy the body's needs for healthful exercise. They also practice cheerfulness and positive thinking.

Thirdly, they are outgoing and friendly in their relations with other people. They do not harbor resentment, do not waste energy feeling critical about others. They try to understand people, esteem them, love them.

Last but not least, an important part of their activity is for the benefit of others.

These four ways of living make for joy in life irrespective of a person's age. It never is too early to start cultivating them. Neither is it ever too late. Start now having a good time living.

Court Fight Looms Union Official Proposes Teamster-Rebel Debate

CINCINNATI (AP)—There was no indication today when and if a proposed debate between Teamsters rebels and a spokesman of the international union might take place.

But a court battle between the two groups appeared more and more likely.

The challenge to public debate was issued Friday by Harold Gibbons, executive vice president of the union and since Thursday trustee for the four Cincinnati locals that have voted to break away and join the AFL-CIO.

James Luken, leader of the rebellion, said he might take the international union executive up on his challenge.

"I'm just a little old local official," Luken said. "I don't claim to be competent to debate high-powered personnel. 'I'll debate with any local official or with any member of our local union."

"He's getting this whole thing out of perspective making it a national issue," Luken continued.

The revolt, largest to confront Teamsters president James R. Hoffa since his recent re-election at Miami, broke out Tuesday night. Three locals voted Wednesday night to disaffiliate and a glass cargo, driving his own tractor and hauling the trailer for General Delivery Co. of Fairmont.

Mrs. Chapman said the service may be resumed if funds can be provided for the operational costs and men can be obtained for first aid training who will assist in the service.

Mrs. Chapman asked residents interested to attend the meeting.

The rig damaged a hedge and sidewalk at the Chaney home, adjacent to the nearby Chaney Service Station.

The home was battered a number of months ago when an auto crashed into a bedroom, and has been struck other times previously, as has the service station. Countless near-misses have occurred at the site.

Chaney was not even awakened by the crash, according to his son, Don, who said, "It's just like being bombed regularly; you get used to it."

Humbert said he was descending the lower part of the hill at about 20 miles an hour.

Police Chief Harold Davis, who still is investigating, said two Hancock County deputy sheriffs, who were headed uphill at the time, told him Humbert's rig was moving at a moderate rate.

Leaking gasoline from the rig was flushed by firemen this morning.

Chief Davis said the truck carried 26,000 pounds of empty ketchup bottles. He said the side of the truck and cab were damaged, but the extent was not determined.

The driver posted a $15.50 bond for a hearing Monday night before Mayor Ray Collins on a charge of operating a vehicle with defective brakes.

Weather Satellite

Discovers 2 Storms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Weather Bureau Friday credited the Tirois III hurricane-hunting satellite with discovering two new Pacific Ocean storms which didn't show on the weather maps.

The new storms were photographed in their infancy Thursday about 500 miles south and southeast of Hawaii. The area has no weather observation stations, and no indication of the storms had been received from other sources.

Their presence was determined by meteorologists at Wallops Island, Va., and Point Mugu, Calif., from analysis of cloud pictures taken and transmitted by the satellite.

Berlin

see for himself how the Communists have cut our city in half in unparalleled fashion," a City Hall spokesman said.

He referred to the six-foot-high concrete wall the Reds are erecting along the 25 miles of border separating West from East Germany.

Johnson was accompanied by Gen. Lucius D. Clay (Ret) former U.S. commander in Germany who was the chief architect of the airlift that defeated the 1948-49 Soviet blockade of Berlin.

Johnson was expected to tour the Western side of the new Communist barrier. Informants said it had not been decided whether he will go into East Berlin.

There has been no indication Communists plan to interfere with the movement of additional U.S. forces to Berlin.

Kennedy announced the troops would come via the Helmstedt-Berlin 110-mile autobahn super-highway linking West Germany with isolated Berlin.

By four-power agreement, the three Western Allies are guaranteed free access to Berlin along the highway.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has threatened to hand control over Berlin access routes to the East Germans once he signs a peace treaty with the Communist government—purportedly by the end of the year.

Communist workers' brigades supported by Red police and militia worked all night under powerful lights to complete the concrete wall and plug up loopholes.

West Berlin officials said about 150 refugees a day have been slipping through the net since the barrier was set up Sunday. Nearly 20 members of the Peoples Police have also skipped into West Berlin.

West Berlin police reported about 100 members of the Communist youth movement had appeared for guard duty at the border of Kreuzberg district in the U.S. sector. They wore steel helmets and carried Soviet-made rifles.

Eyewitnesses reported the East German army had replaced Russian-made T34 tanks stationed near the Brandenburg Gate with other tanks carrying twin-barrel rapid-fire guns.

There were indications of an East German military buildup.

Male members of the Communist youth organization — which numbers 1.7 million boys and girls ranging in age from 10 to 24 — were rallied at collective farms, schools and factories. They were told to enlist "to consolidate our victory."

Gloved Burglars Get Change In Bar Entry

Glove-wearing thieves obtained an undetermined amount of change early today at Pop's Tavern, 1703 Main St., Wellsville police reported.

The change was lifted from cigarette, bowling and pool machines after the burglars had completed a "neat" job of springing the locks on the coin compartments without damaging the devices.

Entrance was gained by jimmying the lock on the front door of the tavern, owned by Cadiz R. Betts.

Police said the intruder apparently wore gloves as they did not leave any fingerprints.

A cleaning woman reported the entry early today. Police said it occurred sometime after 4:45 this morning as daylight neared. However, a light curtain of fog may have shielded the burglars from the view of passing motorists as they entered through the front door.

Suit Hinted On Merger

ger apparently will be through a taxpayer's suit, Johnson said, explaining there is no possibility of the district seeking a referendum at the Nov. 7 general election.

He pointed out the Franklin Local residents feel a petition asking the referendum would have no chance of success since it would require signatures of 35 per cent of the entire new district rather than just those in Franklin Local.

The Franklin Local school board plans to continue to function just as if the County Board of Education hadn't acted, Johnson said, explaining the residents feel the county board had no legal right to order the merger.

Pointing out the county board knew that Franklin parents were "dead set against it," Johnson said the board's action "was cut and dried and didn't come about suddenly."

Franklin Local requested a state survey of its district and the East, Fox and Augusta districts in Carroll County more than a year ago, the spokesman continued.

The survey has never been made although others have been conducted in the meantime, and no explanation ever has been given the Franklin district on why the request wasn't fulfilled, Johnson added.

The Franklin group also feels they were not wanted by the Southern Local district before the merger for fear of reducing the amount of state aid available for a new high school.

By delaying the merger, Southern Local qualified for more money than it would have received if the Franklin district's $2,600,000 valuation had been added to Southern Local's approximate $5,600,000, Johnson argued.

Although still unadvised officially of the merger, the County Election Board has asked the county prosecutor to rule on several questions because of the necessity of printing ballots.

The main problem is what affect the merger will have on candidates who already have filed for school board posts in both districts at the Nov. 7 election, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.

Already at work preparing ballot copy, the election board will receive bids Tuesday to print ballots and hopes to award a contract and begin the ballot printing by late next week. Absentee ballots must be available by Sept. 9, he added.

The merger "certainly" will affect the Franklin Local district where four candidates have filed for three seats, O'Hanlon continued, and also poses a question about two candidates who are unopposed for the Southern Local board.

There's also a question pertaining to the election of a new school board for the district.

The prosecutor has been asked to decide whether an entire new board should be elected this year or delayed until 1963. This is the normal year for election of school board members, O'Hanlon pointed out.

When a new board is appointed, two members are elected for four-year terms and three are named for two years.

The prosecutor also has been asked to decide what form an election should take if one is held this year since the filing deadline for school board candidates expired Aug. 9.

Ohio Lags Far Behind

The myriad problems of urbanization are not peculiar to Ohio, but Ohio may find itself in a peculiar position among the states if it does not soon give more attention to trying to meet those problems in a way consistent with the times.

Various publications dealing with metropolitan life come across an editor's desk, and increasingly these days they bring reports of what other states are doing in the field of annexation, incorporation and development. More and more Ohio's sisters are taking new looks at the whole, complicated problem and coming up with new approaches.

Often the new approaches are drastic and experimental. Often they are revisions of old approaches. Undoubtedly some of them will fail, but the knowledge gained even from failure can spell progress.

WHY OHIO has not got started in this field is hard to understand, since it is one of the most urbanized of all the states in the Union. It ranks toward the top in wealth, people, resources and commerce and industry.

Many of the problems which Ohio's General Assembly faces each session are intimately related to metropolitan growth—industrial development, transportation, highway construction, taxation and government financing, health, education, welfare. Intimately related as well is the problem of federal inroads in matters better handled under local and state control — if it were possible to handle them at those levels.

The key to making real headway toward the solution of many of the problems lies in releasing Ohio's cities from the stranglehold of antiquated, artificial boundary lines and the creation of "paper communities" incorporated because central cities find it impossible to expand.

TO CITE examples of what other states are doing, here are a couple of items:

Arizona no longer will permit the incorporation of a new community in an urbanized area unless it is approved by the city or town central to the urbanized area.

North Carolina has extended the provisions of its special 1959 laws providing for annexation without elections to give cities a chance to catch up with urban growth. The same state prohibits incorporation of new municipalities within three miles of an existing city.

In 1959 Minnesota's legislature set up a statewide commission to direct and control annexations and incorporations, recognizing that the problems of urbanization are irrevocably intertwined with the interests of the state as a whole.

THESE ARE states which are concerned with industrial attraction and sound development.

If Ohio is going to realize its goal of maintaining its superior position among its sister states, it too must deal more realistically with urban growth. And that challenge does not represent merely the selfish interests of each separate metropolitan area in the state.

It involves the interests of the state itself.

Fair Time Again

The curtain is about to go up on another Columbiana County fair.

This year's event promises to have all the color, excitement and gaiety which has marked fairs of the past. There will be something for everyone, with never a dull moment.

Fairs don't just happen. They are the result of hard work and careful planning. Next week's varied program reflects such an effort on the part of those in charge of Columbiana's fair.

With the weatherman's cooperation, the crowds who flock to the fairgrounds at Lisbon will write another chapter in the annual county event. In view of events lined up, it should be a vibrant chapter.

Chaos Reported Inside Red Countries

By Victor Riesel

MUNICH There's turmoil behind the Bohemian border. There are hangings. There are purges. There has even been a show trial in a movie house. There is torture. There is unrest. There is hunger. In Poland, in Bulgaria, even in Czechoslovakia, the wealthiest of all, in Hungary and Albania, in all the earthbound satellites, party leaders are being imprisoned and union chiefs are being dumped.

Victor Riesel

Military and naval officials have been executed in one or another of the captive nations.

Some of this I heard in refugee camps to which I was flown near Trieste, and Rome and Naples. Some of the evidence comes right out of satellite sources. And now here in Munich, where a band of quiet men keep a giant stethoscope to the hearts of the Soviet controlled nations, this is all corroborated by hard documentary evidence.

conspiracy will be tortured, can quell the unrest.

THUS, IN ALBANIA, today, there are 14 large concentration camps and 22 political prisons. In all, some 30,000 persons, or 2.5 per cent of the total population, have been imprisoned. Most of them are still in these camps and pens.

Among these prisoners are the leaders of what passes for an Albanian labor movement. They, along with other officials who have tried to raise the living standards from starvation to subsistence, are being tortured by a secret police from which the OGPU could have learned a trick or two.

This is the Sigurimi - Hoxha's specialists in the weirdest tortures this side of Stalin and Genghis Khan.

There are several kinds of tortures, all revealed in by Prime Minister Hoxha, who has never taken Stalin's picture down off the wall — Khrushchev or no Khrushchev. This Sigurimi uses hand vices to cut off circulation or even the hand.

They use electrical current on prisoners' limbs in a manner guaranteed to create the most excruciating pain in the legs, or the cranium via skull plates.

NO SENSE GOING into more Orwellian details of ghastliness. Point is that this Hoxha is a very tough man.

In Moscow, at the last International Communist party conference, he stood up and said, "Khrushchev has distorted the thesis of Leninism to suit his own purposes. No party has yet seized power without resorting to violence..."

The point here is that Hoxha stood up to Chairman Khrushchev. This means there is factionalism and N. S. Khrushchev is in no position to crush it.

So when you add it all up — the factionalism, the torture, the executions, the purges inside each satellite, the collapse of some collective farming, the disruption of food distribution, the creaking productive machinery in such lands as Bulgaria, you get a picture of internal chaos.

Could be that's why Chairman Khrushchev is making so much noise over Berlin. He wants us to take our eyes off the rest of his not so happy socialist world.

A Ticklish Situation

By Robert C. Toth

The House of Representatives, with a smile, has given the government permission to sell quickly two million pounds of feathers and down from the nation's stockpile of strategic materials.

There is a shortage of feathers in the world — goose, swan and duck types — and the General Services Administration wants to get rid of the surplus feathers, meet the demands of domestic users and make a buck out of the ticklish situation.

The nation does not need the feathers, among other reasons because Army scientists have found a way to treat common, American chicken feathers to substitute for waterproof feathers in sleeping bags. This frees the United States of dependence on foreign imports in time of war, it was noted.

Communist China had been the biggest feather merchant but "curtailment of this source of supply has greatly increased the demand from other sources," the House Armed Services Committee said in reporting out the bill. Formosa is now the free world's largest exporter, the committee added, but it has contracted to supply five million pounds of feathers this year while it produces only three million pounds. Hence the shortage.

The Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, keepers of the nation's strategic stockpile, consulted with the Departments of State, Defense, Interior and Commerce, and decided to sell two million pounds of the feathers it has.

The law normally requires the GSA, the feather sellers, to wait six months after advertising the availability of the material and before the actual auction sale. The House bill, passed and sent to the Senate, waives that waiting period.

GSA hopes to realize about $8 million from the sale which, it said, is more than the government paid for the feathers in 1951-'54.

It Will Take Time

By David Lawrence

Berlin Talks Probably Will Go On And On

IN EUROPE Americans might as well resign themselves to the probable sequence of events in Berlin — it will be months, and not just days or weeks, before the crisis will come to a point of decision.

The tendency in the United States, as a rule, is to be in a hurry — to want things settled in time perhaps for the next edition of the newspapers. The Russians don't operate that way. Time means nothing — negotiations run on for years.

Thus, the Korean Armistice Commission parleys are still carried on in occasional meetings.

So is the conference with Red China about the release of American prisoners.

Laos has been under discussion at an international conference that already has taken three months and shows no signs of termination.

Disarmament talks at Geneva have been going on intermittently for more than a year.

Nuclear test-ban talks have been in progress for nearly three years.

The Berlin issue has been discussed off and on for many years. But recent developments now are likely to lead to another negotiation that will drag on for a long, long time.

In the meantime, what kind of counterprogram to Soviet moves can the Western Allies adopt?

They have, of course, had meetings of their foreign ministers. All sorts of hypothetical plans have been discussed, and there is an agreement in principle among the Western governments that, while certain points are negotiable, others are not.

The Western foreign ministers agreed at Paris the other day that a number of things might be done by way of reprisals, and this is called "contingency planning," but the whole discussion was predicated on the "timetable."

Just when does each side do what?

Naturally, no publicity is given to this phase any more than— as Lord Home, British foreign secretary, put it—"you announce your hand in poker before you are finished playing your cards."

ANOTHER WORD has emerged in the diplomats' vocabulary and has been commented on in press dispatches from Washington. It's the word "escalation." This is supposed to mean that the West wishes to avoid making one move in the series that will provoke the other side to retaliatory operations — a game of tit-for-tat.

This seems sensible to avoid but, unfortunately, the other side doesn't put out little feelers to see what the West will do. There has to be a definite program, therefore, and a decisiveness all along on what are the basic principles, or the Communist strategists will win the game. For they do not have to consult allies — the Kremlin can be decisive at any moment.

Meanwhile, it is fitting that the Western Allies outline their possible countermeasures.

Public discussion in this respect has been helpful. It emphasizes that there are plenty of weapons in the arsenal of diplomacy besides war.

One part of the plan is to impose a total embargo on trade with the Soviet bloc if Moscow really starts a blockade of Berlin.

Since the Warsaw Pact countries now have formally taken their position in favor of a separate peace treaty with East Germany, the whole Communist bloc will have to take the consequences along with the Soviet Union if access to Berlin is denied the Allies.

Other economic sanctions, somewhat less drastic, are being examined, such as closing of Western ports to Communist shipping, and the denial of airport facilities in the West to commercial planes from the Soviet Union. Credits might be shut off, too.

WHEN MIGHT all this take place? That's where the word "timetable" comes in. That's why, when the Russians closed the border to West Berlin the other day, there was some confusion in the press dispatches.

It was reported that Britain didn't want to impose economic sanctions. This isn't correct.

The British simply didn't feel that the time had come for the drastic steps to be taken. It was desired to let the situation around Berlin develop further and wait, if possible, until Nikita Khrushchev made some additional move.

What is significant is that, from London, Paris and Washington, there is frank admission in official quarters that economic force will be applied at the proper time if the Soviets violate Allied rights in West Berlin.

TECHNICALLY, the closing of the border in Berlin to the fleeing East Germans, while considered to be a violation of the Four Power Treaty, is not regarded at the moment to be an issue necessitating a showdown of economic or military strength.

So the people of the Western world might as well adjust themselves to a long, drawn out, exasperating "negotiation" which will take many months.

If a settlement does come next winter, it will be somewhat earlier than most persons familiar with the Soviet turn of mind feel is likely to happen.

Red Volunteer Army

By James Weatherall

The Soviets are apparently trusting the East German Communist: "National People's Army" to put down any uprising in East Berlin and the Russian Zone.

Moscow lost faith in their satellite's "Volksarmee" during the East German uprising of June 17, 1953.

Several units which were called out to aid Soviet tanks, refused to fire on their own people. Soon after, Lt. Gen. Vincenz Mueller, chief of staff, and former Hitler tank general, was relieved of command.

Until the June 17 revolt, the Soviet denied there was any East German military units in their zone. But in January 1956, they admitted they had been building up a "People's Army" and for the first time since the defeat of the Nazis, a German army paraded along Unter den Linden in Communist East Berlin.

THE NEW ARMY wore "traditional" German uniforms with many trappings that once decorated the Wehrmacht uniform.

Except for the Czech type helmets it could have been 1939 all over again. They even passed the reviewing stand on Marx-Engles Plaza doing the old Prussian parade march, better known to Americans as the "goose step."

The Volksarmee received its cadre back in 1948 from volunteers among German prisoners of war in the Soviet Union who had joined a "Free Germany Army Corps." Many of them had been captured at Stalingrad and were bitter at being deserted to their frozen fate by Hitler.

The army, disguised as "baracks police," lured recruits by offering better rations, housing and other comforts during the hungry postwar years.

By 1950 when the Soviets let their "police force" out of the barracks, it had grown to 60,000 men including some armored and artillery units.

After its disloyal showing during the East German workers' uprising, the Volksarmee was reorganized. All during the buildup to its estimated 175,000 men strength today, the Soviet army was plagued with wholesale desertions to the West. In 1954, 200 officers and 2,000 men fled to West Germany.

Communist officials like to point out that their Volksarmee does not depend on the draft to fill its ranks, however, the "volunteers" join under considerable pressure.

Most of the recruits are former members of the blue-shirted Free German Youth (FDJ) organization, a carbon copy of the Hitler Youth Movement.

The FDJ has a membership of more than two million and makes an ideal training school for future soldiers of the People's Army.

EACH FDJ UNIT has a quota of "volunteers" for the army. The youth leaders must use every means of persuading the reluctant volunteers to sign up. Since those who refuse their military obligation are "endangering peace" they may find themselves out of a job and working in the uranium mines in Saxony.

Besides the Volksarmee, an East German youth can volunteer for the border police or one of a dozen other military and semi-military organizations. If he is physically unfit for the service, he is pressured to join the "worker's militia" at his factory.

Just how "loyal" the Volksarmee would be in an all out war is something the Soviets would like to know.

Who Is Ahead In Berlin?

The man who tries to keep himself informed on international affairs is in his usual state of confusion these days over the conflicting interpretations of what has been happening in Berlin.

In the aftermath of last weekend's border-closing by the East Germans, some experts say the Reds have hurt themselves in world opinion, while others say the Reds have in fact accomplished a good bit of what they have been seeking all along.

Holders of the former view contend the Communists are on the defensive in the eyes of the world and that the West is now in a stronger position to offer to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the German problem.

Holders of the latter view contend the Reds have negated a good part of the West's advantage in West Berlin by stopping the flow of refugees and therefore can afford to give the appearance of generosity in any negotiations that develop.

At the heart of the contradiction is the question of what makes a strong bargaining position.

It is no secret that the Communists have only the slightest concern with world opinion when the chips are down. Their primary concern is the de facto situation in which they find themselves and what they can do about it.

The West, on the other hand, is equally concerned with world opinion and de facto situations. Trying to "strike the proper balance in order to take fullest advantage of both at the bargaining table makes the formulation of Western policy and Western decisions infinitely more complex.

The danger, of course, is that in waiting for world opinion to manifest itself and then measuring it, the de facto situation may change radically. That change, in turn, can have a profound effect on the impressionable elements that comprise "world opinion."

Every skillful politician knows that the public is fickle, and its collective opinion can shift with ease, especially when helped along with shrewd manipulation.

This must be what Nikita Khrushchev counts on when he concentrates on the de facto situation and relies on time and propaganda to take care of world opinion.

Keep The Lid On

Beaver County law enforcement officials have acted wisely in taking steps to "keep the lid on" gambling.

Any preventive action they take now to keep the rackets from moving in will make their job that much easier in the future. Once the lid is off illicit operations mushroom quickly and it takes a herculean effort to get it back on.

This is a case where the proverbial ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

9 Of 14 Indices Dip

Business, Factory Activity Declines

Business conditions in the East Liverpool area showed a slight decline in July with decreases in 9 of the 14 categories used in the Chamber of Commerce's monthly business review.

For the first seven months of this year, figures show declines in 12 of the 14 indices, the Chamber's report showed.

The average monthly employment in 12 area factories last month was 3,641, a drop of 3.2 per cent from June's 3,760. The monthly employment for the first seven months is 7.4 per cent behind the similar period last year with an average employment of 3,806 against 4,111 in 1960.

PAYROLLS in the 12 factories also declined, dropping from $1,147,121 in June to $1,061,245 last month, a decrease of 7 1/2 per cent. The $7,887,781 paid out in payrolls so far this year is 13.6 per cent behind the $9,126,167 recorded last year.

Sales tax receipts dropped 52.1 per cent last month to $37,321 as compared to $77,848, but Chamber officials pointed out June is the end of the fiscal year when final details are cleared up. However, the tax receipts so far this year are running 13.3 per cent behind 1960 with returns of $277,352 compared to $319,741.

Bank clearings showed a gain of 3 1/2 per cent last month, climbing to $3,514,308, compared to June's $3,395,977. However, the clearings in the first seven months totaled $21,920,170, compared to $23,528,405 in 1960, a decrease of 6.8 per cent.

BANK DEBITS in July registered a gain of 6.4 per cent, climbing from June's $22,640,700 to $24,043,359 last month. Debits are trailing so far this year in comparison to 1960's figures with average monthly totals of $21,752,225 as against $22,922,384, a drop of 5.1 per cent.

Postal receipts showed an increase of almost 1 per cent last month and are 2 per cent higher in the first seven months than they were in 1960.

Receipts last month totaled $19,223, compared to $19,046 in June. The total for the year is $139,896 against $137,102 a year ago. Inbound railroad carloadings showed the biggest gain, climbing 56.4 per cent from 156 in June to 244 in July. Despite the big boost, however, inbound carloadings total only 1,302 so far this year, compared to 1,777 in 1960, a decrease of 26.7 per cent.

OUTBOUND railroad carloadings dropped from 272 in June to 243 last month, a decline of 10.7 per cent, and are running 24.2 per cent behind in cumulative figures, totaling 1,331 so far this year compared to 2,021 in 1960.

The number of towboats on the Ohio River last month also reflected a big gain, but a decline was registered in the tonnage.

The number of tows climbed to 563 in July against 468 in June. However, the amount of river traffic so far this year is 12.1 per cent behind a year ago, showing 2,942 tows compared to 3,346.

Tonnage last month totaled 1,325,500, a drop of 6.8 per cent from June's 1,422,100. Tonnage carried on the river this year amounts to 8,585,700, a drop of 3.9 per cent from the 8,936,800 carried in the first seven months of 1960.

NEW CAR registrations declined again last month and are running well behind 1960's figures. Registrations in July totaled 262 against 286 in June. For the first seven months, registrations totaled 1,665 as against 2,413 in a comparable 1960 period, a drop of 31 per cent.

Used car sales also were down last month, dropping to 800 as against 905 in June, a decline of 11.6 per cent, while the total so far this year of 4,816 is a drop of 27.3 per cent from 6,623 in the same period a year ago.

Parking meter receipts were off 35 per cent in July, dropping to $4,839 compared to June's $7,445. However, parking revenue is up 7.2 per cent so far this year, totaling $35,607 against $33,220 in 1960.

City relief cases climbed 9 1/2 per cent last month, totaling 115 in July compared to June's 105. The average monthly number of cases is far ahead of the same period in 1960 with a total of 121 compared to 74 a year ago, up 63 1/2 per cent.

Guest Of Lions Club Speaks On Life In Native Holland

Life in his native Holland was described by Dick Vaneerden of Calcutta at the meeting of the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

He discussed business conditions and life in general in his talk. Unemployment is low in Holland and there are no large unions although they are on the increase, the manager of the Stevenson Co. foundry in Wellsville said.

One of the big differences between American and his homeland is the amounts earned by professional men and workers.

"Do-it-yourself" projects aren't rated highly by the Dutch, Vaneerden said, explaining neighbors feel ashamed if a man must paint his own home or repair plumbing rather than call the tradesmen.

A credit record at the bank is not a sign of prosperity, he continued, as residents believe in paying cash for purchases.

There's also a difference in wedding ceremonies since a couple must register at what is comparable to City Hall and the ceremony is performed by the mayor. A church ceremony then can be held if desired.

Ohio Locations Seen Ideal For Space Unit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio has a number of sites which would make an ideal location for the Apollo Moonshot Space Center, Rep. Walter H. Moeller, D-Ohio, said he told the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle wrote Moeller he understands Ohio is among four states being considered for the project, which envisions developing a space ship to carry three men to the moon and back.

Moeller, in his letter to NASA Administrator James E. Webb, mentioned Ironton, Gallipolis and Pomeroy - Middleport, Ohio, as possible sites for the space center, saying they would have "the tremendous advantage of the Ohio - Mississippi River system."

Financed By Negro Churches

White Minister Finishes Training As Missionary

By LEE WINBORN

Pontiac Press Staff Writer

ROCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — A white minister Friday finished an intensive training program, financed primarily by Negro churches, to prepare him for his forthcoming assignment as a missionary in Hong Kong.

The Rev. Thomas Tune, 32, put in 60 hours a week—10 hours a day, six days a week over a two month period—preparing for his new job.

He completed his capsule course in Chinese, a prerequisite for his forthcoming foreign assignment in Hong Kong. Ordinarily the course takes a year but he did it in six weeks.

Tune is believed to be the first United States white evangelist sent by a Negro church to do missionary work abroad.

Officials at Michigan Christian Junior College near Rochester also believe he is the first student to take such a cram course in Chinese in a Christian college anywhere in the country.

"I feel like a guinea pig," said the Kentucky-born minister, "but the experience has been extremely worthwhile and enjoyable."

"My course in Chinese was something like the one the army offers in eight weeks to teach Cuban refugees the English language," he explained.

The Murray, Ky., minister said he completed a book on spoken Chinese in five weeks and then concentrated on reading and writing the language.

He now has a basic vocabulary of about 400 words in the Mandarin dialect, the national language of China.

With the language barrier broken, Tune expressed hope he would be able to minister both physically and spiritually to the Chinese refugees who are pouring into the British crown colony at the rate of about 2,000 a day.

"The Communists have already torn down the foundations of Confucianism and Buddhism, and we want to train enough Chinese to bring Christianity to their homeland," he said.

"Today no one is permitted to help Communist China, but we as a group hope to be able to send relief to the stricken people, who are dying by the millions for lack of food," the evangelist said.

Tune's dream of becoming a missionary in the Orient found fruition in California early this spring. He was a minister at the Church of Christ, Pleasant Hills, just 20 miles from North Richmond, Calif., where there was a Negro church of the same denomination.

He and the Negro minister, The Rev. F. F. Carson, used to preach in each other's pulpits and soon both congregations became aware of Tune's desire to work in the Orient.

The Negro church members voted to back their friend. They enlisted the cooperation of other units of their church across the country to raise the money necessary to send Tune to the Michigan college and to pay the expenses of his forthcoming two years abroad.

In addition, the Rev. M. Tune said three other Negro units of his church in California—East Palo Alto, Oakland and San Francisco—chipped in to pay the expenses of his wife, Charlene, and their four children who stayed at home in Madison, Tenn., while he was in Michigan.

He estimated the cost of his training in Michigan, and his two years abroad with his family would run about $25,000—with about 85 per cent of it raised by Negro congregations.

Minister Seeks To Oust Family From His Church

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Baptist minister, embroiled in a year-long feud with a family of three in his church, refuses to turn the other cheek. "I want them to leave," he says.

The Rev. Wayne A. Eurich, 41, pastor of the First Baptist church of Mar Vista, a Los Angeles suburb, went to court Friday in an effort to oust the John H. Chapman family from his congregation.

He told Superior Court that the family had engaged in "un-Christian conduct and abusive language" and had sung and read scriptures too loudly during services.

The court issued a preliminary injunction barring Chapman, 48, his wife, Betty, 38, and their daughter Connie, 19, from using the church premises.

"We have nothing vindictive in mind," The Rev. Mr. Eurich said. "The affair began when Mrs. Chapman addressed the deacons of the church in an abusive manner concerning my denial to marry an underage couple until they had obtained a juvenile court order."

"Later, Mrs. Chapman sang during services at the top of her voice—off key. And she would read too loudly while the congregation was reciting the scriptures."

The Chapmans, represented by attorney Harvey N. Gedrich, denied the accusations.

"Mrs. Chapman says she did not use abusive language," Gedrich said. "We plan to appeal the injunction. We're going to fight to get the family back in the church."

"I think it's a perversion of Christianity to expel people from their church. The purpose of a church is not to chase people from it."

The Rev. Mr. Eurich contended in an affidavit that Mrs. Chapman's husband, who is a butcher, and her daughter joined in "disturbing the peace, tranquility and solemnity" of the services.

He said the congregation had expelled the Chapmans but they had continued attending services.

The Chapmans contend that their constitutional rights would be violated if they are forbidden to worship in the church of their choice.

Fight Plans Set Against Gas Rate Hike

CLEVELAND (AP)—Plans for a fight against the East Ohio Gas Co.'s request for a $34 million rate increase were drawn here Friday by representatives of 50 municipalities in the company's northeast Ohio service area.

They agreed to share the cost of the battle and approved a resolution calling for contributions of one cent per capita of population in each of the communities. They said ordinances covering the proposal would be introduced in their individual councils.

Sam Fekett, law director of Youngstown, said Mahoning County commissioners and councilmen of several of the county's municipalities agreed at a meeting Friday to support the one-cent-per-capita contribution to the war chest.

Law Director Ralph S. Locher, who called the meeting here as chairman of the Ohio Municipal League's utilities committee, estimated $30,000 would be needed for preliminary studies by a rate consultant.

The group also approved a resolution supporting Locher in refusing a request by A. H. Forbes, East Ohio vice president, to present the company's position at the meeting.

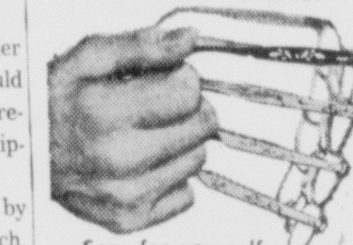

Present were mayors and chairmen of council utilities committees as well as several state representatives. Officials from 108 municipalities had been invited.

PROPHETS and TEACHERS—3

Faith strengthened Moses to become emancipator, law-giver, spiritual leader and father of his people. He imbued the hearts of slaves with consciousness of God as he led them to freedom, ennobling his teaching, in that early dark period of man's history, with passages of divine love. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. . . And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might."

What you see above is known as "white space." It's what newspaper advertisers buy. It's what they bought to the tune of $3,650,000,000 in 1960. They bought it for one purpose — to sell more goods and services. Must be a good investment, because advertisers put more money into newspaper white space last year than ever before, more than in television, radio, magazines and outdoor combined.*

An all-time high of almost 59,000,000 newspapers are published on an average day and 9 out of 10 families get a daily newspaper on an average day. It follows that practically every sale of every product or service is made to a newspaper reader.

Television	$1,595,000,000
Magazines	938,000,000
Radio	672,000,000
Outdoor	203,000,000
*Total, 4 Media	$3,408,000,000
Newspapers	$3,650,000,000

How Showers & Washing Machines Affect Septic Tanks

The additional soaps, detergents, and body oils that enter septic tanks during the summer season, increase the scum mat, and flow out to the drainage areas. This means that more sluggish system will develop, since the scum will clog over-flow pipes and seal up the pores of the drainfield. In addition, excessive use of detergents and bleaches will destroy much of the biological life in the system. Odors too are more noticeable during the warmer weather.

How Sea-Cal Helps

Since the enzymes in Sea-Cal are extremely effective against fats and greases, they will breakdown and digest much of the scum mat in the septic tank, and then penetrate into the drainfield to continue working on the solids in that area, so as to make a much better operating drainage system. The additional bacteria, many millions of which are contained in each gram of Sea-Cal, will replace the bacteria which are destroyed by the detergents and the bleaches. We, therefore, recommend that Sea-Cal be used regularly during summer months, and throughout the entire year.

Reds 'Deal Out' Cards To Lead Skidding Dodgers By 2

Lowly Phils Set Record; Bucs Shaded

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers' first real slump of the season was a long time coming, but now it's here—and it's a pip.

After losing as many as three in a row only twice through their first 109 games, the Dodgers now have skidded out of first place by losing five straight, dropping two games behind Cincinnati with a 2-1, 10-inning defeat at San Francisco Friday night.

Until they forced the extra inning with a tying run in the ninth against the Giants, the Dodgers hadn't scored in 34 2-3 innings and hadn't managed an extra-base hit in 45 1-3 innings.

That may have checked the shutout spell, but Orlando Cepeda's leadoff home run extended the slump in the 10th and ate into the Dodgers' edge over Cincinnati in the decisive "lost" column.

The Reds, who have lost one more than the Dodgers, ran their winning streak to five with a 6-3 victory over St. Louis behind the six-hit pitching of Ken Johnson, an American League castoff.

Last place Philadelphia set a modern major league record when Milwaukee handed the Phils their 21st consecutive defeat, 4-1. It was the eighth straight success for the Braves, who remained a half-game back of third place San Francisco. The Chicago Cubs outlasted Pittsburgh 2-1 in 11 innings.

In the American League, Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle again were held without a home run and the New York Yankees lost 5-1 at Cleveland. Detroit defeated Boston 5-0, Baltimore beat Washington 3-2, Kansas City defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and the Los Angeles Angels whipped Minnesota 5-2.

The Dodgers were shut out on two hits by Billy Loes, Billy O'Dell and Stu Miller for eight innings. Then they tied it in the ninth on a double by Ron Fairly—their first extra-base hit in the slump—and two walks plus a two-out single by John Roseboro.

Miller put down the Dodgers in order in the 10th and became a 10-game winner for the first time in the nine-year major league career when Cepeda tagged Larry Sherry (4-4) for his 33rd home run.

The Giants scored first in the seventh inning when Willie McCovey, out of the starting line-up since he was benched July 28, broke up a shutout duel by hitting a home run off Don Drysdale.

The Reds, after sweeping three games from Los Angeles, ran across three runs in the first inning against Bob Gibson (8-10) on a bases-loaded triple by Gordy Coleman. They counted the clincher in the third inning when Frank Robinson came home in a double steal with Jerry Lynch. Johnson (4-1) blanked the Cards on three hits for six innings.

Low Burdette (15-8) gave up six hits to the Phils, but walked no one. Don Demeter homered in the seventh inning. The Braves had wrapped it up in the first on Hank Aaron's two-run single off Jim Owens (1-8).

The Phils' 21st consecutive loss wiped out the modern (post-1900) record of 20 held by the Boston Red Sox of 1916 and the Philadelphia A's of 1916 and 1943. The all-time record is 24, set in 1899 by Cleveland, then in the NL.

A double by Ernie Banks won it for the Cubs and Dick Ellisworth (7-7) while handing the loss to Tom Sturdivant (7-7).

Miss Ohio Handicap Slated At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Turf Club's nine-race program at River Downs today was to be topped by the Miss Ohio Handicap.

Miss Ohio herself, Darlene DiPasquale of Dayton, was to be on hand for the event in which the handicappers' choice 3-year-olds were Tilly's Royal, Hypo's Hope and Dinnacre.

All three were to tote 115-pound burdens over the six-furlong course.

Friday's feature event was won by Mizibizness who shaved four-fifths a second off the track record by stepping seven furlongs on turf in 1:23 4-5. Mizibizness paid $10.60.

Buckeye Handicap Set Today At Thistledown

CLEVELAND (AP)—Co-favorite John William, owned by Merrick Stable, was assigned top weight of 122 pounds for the 12th running of the Buckeye Handicap today at Thistle Down.

Sharing top billing for the mile-and-one-eighth race was S. & K. Stable's Hymint, winner of the handicap last year and the Buckeye Prep last Saturday. He was to carry 118 pounds.

Ten horses were entered and if all go to the post the race will carry a purse of $24,600.

East Enders Win; Finals Set Sunday

East End Merchants refused to be eliminated in the City Softball League playoff Friday, as they handed American Vitified Products a 9-1 defeat to remain eligible for the finals.

The two squads will clash Sunday at 6 p.m. at Dopler Field, with the winner bagging the play-off title. The original playoff field numbered four teams. Had AVP been able to come up with a victory last night, the playoff would have ended with the winners getting the championship.

Gene Talbott hurled East End to the triumph, limiting AVP to one run on five hits. Jack Henry was the loser.

Larry Talbott socked two singles and a double in driving in four of East End's runs. Del Manning helped out with two hits, a single and a double, while Talbott also singled and doubled.

Landfried had two of AVP's hits.

Clark Boots Three Home To Close Gap On Saumell

Jockey Charles Clark rode three mounts to victory in Friday's racing program at Waterford Park to gain on Francisco Saumell, the leader, who failed to ride a winner.

Clark's "triple" included victories on Bobetty in the third ($5.60), Raid in the fifth ($3.40) and Goodwin in the ninth ($4.20).

Saumell, however, still has an edge in winning mounts, 51 to 46.

A number combination of 2-7 was worth a daily double return of $69.60. Pete The Great, with jockey J. Shoyat in the stirrups, won the first race, and Iraskis Pride won the sixth and seventh races on Overlook Lady and Chelsea.

Britain Strong Favorite Over U.S. In Cup Tennis

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—After a week of hard practice on unfamiliar courts, Great Britain's Wightman Cup tennis team today was near its peak as it opened competition as strong favorites against the United States.

Britain's squad, four of the finest women amateur players ever to represent that country, meet the U.S. foursome on the Saddle & Cycle Club courts.

There are two singles and one doubles today, followed Sunday by a win-dup of three singles and one doubles. Each match won is worth one point.

Great Britain won the cup 4-3 last year, but never since 1924-1925 has that country taken it twice in succession. Since the series started in 1923, the U.S. has built a 26-6 edge.

Teen-agers carry the U.S. hopes this time, with its two-top-ranked players facing Britain's strongest in opening matches.

In the first match, Karen Hantze, 18, San Diego, meets Wimbledon finalist Christine Truman, 20. Next on the firing line is Billie Jean Moffitt, 17, Long Beach, Calif., against Ann Haydon, 22, member of the Wightman Cup team since 1957.

Miss Hantze and Miss Moffitt will open today in a doubles match against Miss Truman and Deirdre Catt, 21.

The No. 3 singles players, Justina Bricks, 18, St. Louis and Wimbledon champion Angela Mortimer, will start Sunday's action. They will be followed by matches between Miss Hantze and Miss Haydon and Miss Moffitt and Miss Truman.

The final match sends Mrs. Margaret Osborne duPont and Margaret Varner, both of Wilmington, Del., against Miss Mortimer and Miss Haydon.

Cincinnati Defeated In Legion Jr. Play

PRINCETON, Ind. (AP)—Flint, Mich. eliminated Rockport, Ind., 4-3 and Highland Park, Ill., out-slugged Cincinnati 11-7 in the American Legion Junior Baseball Region 5 Tournament Friday night.

The schedule today matched Flint with Highland Park and Cincinnati with St. Louis.

Picking One Another Up, 'Hutch' Says

CINCINNATI (AP)—"They're picking one another up, and that's about it," Manager Fred Hutchinson said today of his front-running Cincinnati Reds.

The Reds won their fifth consecutive game Friday night, turning back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-3, in their quest for their first National League pennant in 21 years.

Ken Johnson, using a fine assortment of pitches, won his fourth game against one defeat since joining the club July 21. The former Toronto pitcher allowed only six hits.

As for "picking one another up" Hutchinson pointed to Frank Robinson's return to hitting form; Gordie Coleman's timely batting; the hot bat Eddie Kasko who has been swinging and the fine defensive play of the infield in general.

None of the Reds' brass has yet openly expressed much confidence of winning the pennant, but the club has obtained permission from the city to put up temporary bleachers beyond the left field wall — just in case any World Series games are played here this year.

Third baseman Gene Freese made a sensational leaping catch of Charlie James' bid for a hit and converted it into a double play in the fifth inning Friday night. Don Blasingame also made several fine plays.

Coleman put the Reds ahead in the first inning when he tripled to the right field corner with the bases filled against loser Bob Gibson.

Robinson knocked in two runs and scored another when Jerry Lynch and he worked a double steal.

Johnson easily turned St. Louis back until the seventh. Finally, a walk, an error, a fielder's choice and hits by Stan Musial and Curt Flood gave the Cards two runs. It was the first scoring against Red pitching in 32 innings.

Ken Boyer is down to oppose St. Louis' Ernie Broglio tonight at Crosley Field.

Powered by a reliable drive, Marston beat Bobby Littler of Athens, Ohio, 1961 state high school champ, 3-2. Killian dumped John Peterson of Dunedin, Fla., 2 up.

In the quarterfinals Littler had downed Elliot Pachter of Kansas City, 1961 Missouri state medalist, 2 and 1.

Sturdivant Loses Close One To Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)—Tom Sturdivant of the Pittsburgh Pirates has lost his first game in the National League, but it was a close one.

The Chicago Cubs beat the former American Leaguer in 11 innings Friday, 2-1. Until the fatal 11th, Sturdivant had permitted the Cubs only six hits and walked just one.

Prior to the game, the right-hander had won two games against Philadelphia, going the distance both times.

The Cubs' winning run came on Jerry Kindall's single and Ernie Banks' double.

Kindall also had a hand in the Cubs' first run in the fourth. He doubled, took third on Banks' fly ball to left and came across on George Altman's sacrifice fly.

The Pirates tied it in the eighth as Dick Groat doubled home Bill Mazeroski, who had forced Bill Virdon at second and then reached second himself on a wild pitch.

Dick Ellisworth went the distance for the Cubs, marking the longest stint by a Chicago hurler since the start of the 1958 season. The victory was his seventh in 14 decisions.

In today's contest, Harvey Hadix (8-6) was to pitch for the Pirates against Jack Curtis (8-7).

Indians Sidetrack Yankee Express As Tigers Trim Lead

Kline Shuts Out Red Sox; Orioles Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ronnie Kline's stay with the Pittsburgh Pirates may have ended a year too soon, but he's come around just in time for the Detroit Tigers in the American League pennant race.

The right-hander, a sometime winner with St. Louis and the Los Angeles Angels after he was traded by the Pirates in 1959, was picked up by the Tigers last week from the Angels despite a 3-6 record.

Kline made it pay off Friday night, blanking Boston on four hits for his first shutout in more than three years and a 5-0 victory that moved the Tigers within three games of first place New York.

The Yankees were choked off on three hits by Jim (Mudcat) Grant, who shut out Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, and were whipped 5-1 at Cleveland. The men each struck out twice, and both were 0-for-4.

Baltimore got past Washington 3-2. Kansas City defeated the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and Los Angeles rapped Minnesota 5-2.

In the National League, Cincinnati gained a two-game lead with a 6-3 victory over St. Louis while San Francisco defeated second place Los Angeles 2-1 in 10 innings. Milwaukee beat Philadelphia 4-1, giving the Phils a modern major league record with 21 consecutive losses, and the Chicago Cubs defeated Pittsburgh 2-1 in 11 innings.

Kline (4-7) gave up only three singles and a double, struck out two and walked one for his first complete game in 28 starts since May of last year.

The Tigers backed him with two runs in the first inning, one on Rocky Colavito's 32nd home run. Bill Monbouquette (8-12) was the loser.

Grant (12-6), a right-hander, struck out nine and walked one while pitching the fifth three-hitter of his career. Elston Howard's fifth inning home run was New York's first hit, after Mudcat had retired 14 in a row. The Indians scored all they needed in a three-run first inning off Jim Coates (7-14), capped by Bubba Phillips (2-9) two-run homer.

Maris, with 48 home runs, now is 13 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60 pace of 1927. Mantle, with 45, is 11 games ahead of the Babe but hasn't hit a home run since Sunday.

Singles by Whitey Herzog, Jackie Brandt and Jim Gentile broke a 2-2 tie for the Orioles in the eighth inning against Joe McClain (7-14). Steve Barber (15-9) was the winner.

All of the runs were unearned in the White Sox-A's game. Kansas City came from behind with three in the seventh, with Deron Johnson's two-run, two-out double breaking a 1-1 tie. Bob Shaw (8-11) was the winner and Ray Herbert (8-11) was the loser.

More Size And Speed

New Cumberland High Looks For Good Season

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Coach John Kuzio of New Cumberland High has been affiliated with scholastic football too long to predict any unbeaten seasons or championships for his team.

But he looks for his 1961 squad to at least equal or maybe even improve on last year's 4-6 record, which included victories over rivals Chester and Newell for the mythical championship of Hancock County.

"With a few breaks, we'll give a good account of ourselves this season," the 15-year mentor declares in pointing to a crop of seven lettermen among 42 candidates — biggest turnout at New Cumberland in recent years. The Blue Raiders figure to field a bigger line, well-seasoned, and a fairly-fast backfield for their opener Sept. 8 against Northwest at Darlington.

HEADING THE backfield is quarterback Allen Katzenmeyer, 145-pound junior. He's a fair passer, who got plenty of experience last year after regular Charles Miller suffered a broken arm in the third game.

The halfback posts will be manned by William Manley, 165 pounds, and Edward Wudarsky, 135 pounds, both sophomores, who possess ample speed, Kuzio said. Sophomore Alan Pettit, 160-pound junior, one of the hardest runners among the backfield candidates, will operate at fullback. Kuzio can pick from a variety of sizes for linemen, with the heaviest tackles Gary Nardo, 202 pounds, and George Myers, 180 pounds, both seniors and returning lettermen.

Kenneth Freshwater, 150-pound junior end; John Patterson, 170-pound senior guard; Edward Baldwin, 145-pound senior center, and James Bradley, 140-pound center, are leading candidates for posts on the Blue Raider forward wall.

Another letter winner is Larry Powell, 138-pound backfield candidate, a senior. James Bursky, 145-pound junior transfer from Maryland, is handling quarterbacking duties with Katzenmeyer.

GRADUATION claimed four regulars from last year, including Miller, fullback Ron Haynes, halfback Jim Kiger and end Tom Hale. Ed Moore, injured last season, will not participate this year.

Kuzio also has size in line material in junior Jerry Manypenny, 170-pound tackle, sophomore Richard Cline, 175 pounds, and James Fields, 175-pound tackle.

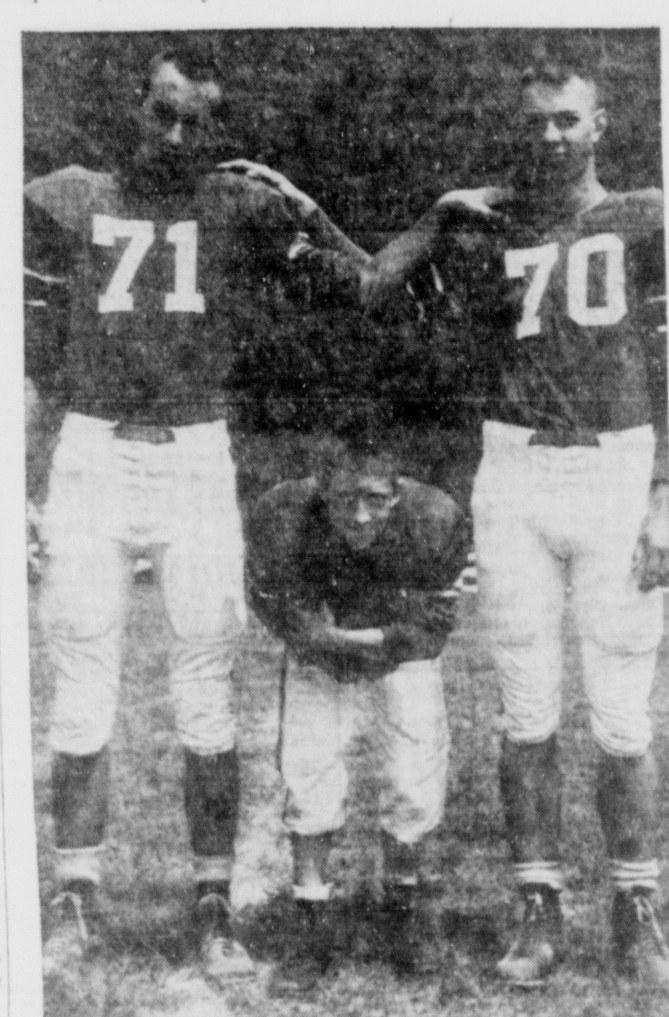

Due to the unusually large turnout of six seniors, 13 juniors, 10 sophomores and 13 freshmen, Kuzio figures he's much better off in the way of material to choose from than in recent years.

"Overall, we'll have more speed in the backfield than last year, and our line is back almost intact," he said in surveying the situation.

Kuzio is exceptionally familiar with season prospects though he's only been head coach since 1959. His service includes 13 years as assistant to Charlie Miller, now retired from coaching.

Kuzio will retain the split-T formation used by last year's team. Burskey and Katzenmeyer will handle the punting duties and the giant Nardo the kickoffs.

The Blue Raiders have one new opponent on their schedule — Jefferson Union — an away battle Nov. 3.

CUMBERLAND HAS VARIETY. Here's the long and short of it on New Cumberland High's football squad. Tiny Jerry Baxter, 4-foot, 10-inch, 85-pound freshman, is dwarfed by tackles George Myers, 6-4, 180 pounds, left, Gary Nardo, 6-4, 202 pounds, both letter winners.

Mexico Slight Choice In Cup Doubles Today

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mexico's doubles team of Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox enters the American Zone Davis Cup tennis championships today as a slight favorite over the United States' Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston.

Francisco (Pancho) Contreras, Mexican team captain, feels his boys have the edge, but it's the possible pressure accompanying the Davis Cup test that worries him.

With the teams tied at 1-all the doubles' action means neither a country can wrap up the championship until Sunday's final pair of singles.

"Antonio, who hits everything hard, probably has more general class than his teammates," said Contreras, "but he tends to be a nervous player. He could be very hot or very cold."

He said he thought Osuna probably would be as sharp as he was Friday when he played brilliantly to overwhelm McKinley 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Bernard (Tut) Bartenzen used his long left strokes and near-perfect shot placement to bolster the Americans' spirits Friday. He downed Mario Llamas, Mexico's No. 1 man, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in the second round of singles play.

Ralston, from Bakersfield, Calif., nursed a sore throat for a few days earlier in the week but expects to be ready.

The doubles triumph last year gave the United States a 2-1 edge and it went on to win the matches 3-2. Mexico never has beaten the United States.

Nation's Top Swimmers Eye More World Records

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The nation's best swimmers aimed at more world records today as the two new ones were written into the books in the Men's National AAU Outdoor Swimming and Diving Championships.

Best bet for a possible new standard was posed in the 200-meter breaststroke with Chet Jas-tremski of the Indianapolis Athletic Club shooting at the world mark of 2:36.5.

Jastremski has a pending mark of 2:33.6 and the Los Angeles Swim Stadium, a regulation Olympic size 50-meter pool, seems ideal for record making.

Two world and one American marks were smashed in Friday's opening program.

Steve Clark, 18, of the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club eclipsed the world 100-meter freestyle with a clocking of 54.4.

Ted Stickler for the second time lowered the world mark of the 400-meter individual medley, swimming the butterfly, back-

Grant Stills 'M-Boys' To Steal Show

CLEVELAND (AP) — The largest crowd to attend a baseball game here this season came to Municipal Stadium Friday night to see Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle hit home runs in their assault on Babe Ruth's record, but left cheering Jim Grant.

The Cleveland right-hander was given a tremendous ovation by the 37,840 fans after he held the two Yankee sluggers hitless in checking New York on three hits in the Indians' 5-1 victory.

Maris and Mantle were strike-out victims twice apiece as Grant (12-6) fanned nine batters and walked only one.

"I pitched Mickey fast and slow stuff to Roger," Grant said in explaining how he sidetracked the Yankees' double M express. "I worked up and down, but I didn't try to pitch to spots."

Maris, who has hit 48 homers and now is 13 games ahead of Ruth's record 60 pace of 1927, gave full credit to Grant.

"That's the best I've ever seen him," said the New York right fielder.

Mantle, who has 45 homers and is 11 games ahead of the Babe's pace, said:

"Grant always does look tough to me," said Mantle. "I never did hit him."

Mantle hasn't hit one out of the park since Sunday, but he came close Friday night. Jim Piersall backed up against the fence in right — center near the 380-foot mark to make a leaping catch of Mixkey's drive in the fifth inning.

The Yankees' only run was a homer by Elston Howard, his 12th, in the fifth inning. It came after Grant had retired the first 15 batters.

Grant also finished strong, retiring 11 of the last 12 batters. The string was broken by Tony Kubek's single with one out in the ninth. Grant then struck out Maris and got Mantle on a fly.

Bud Daley bounced a ground rule double into the right field stands in the sixth inning for the other Yankee hit.

Grant would not say it was his best game.

"I'm sentimental," he said. "I'll still take my first one in the majors—against Kansas City."

The Indians got all their runs off starter Jim Coates (9-4) who gave up seven hits in 2 2/3 innings. Thereafter Daley and Al Downing blanked the Tribe on three hits.

In the first inning, Piersall singled and scored on Tito Francona's double. Francona scored ahead of Bubba Phillips, who hit his 18th homer of the year, over the left field fence.

Cleveland got two more runs in the third. Phillips was hit by a pitch and advanced to second on a passed ball. Romano walked and he and Phillips scored on Woodie Held's triple.

Barry Latman (9-3) of the Indians opposed southpaw Whitey Ford (20-3) in today's game.

Record-Breaking Looming Today In Shoot Classic

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — A bit of record-breaking was in the making today as the 62nd Grand American Trapshoot went into its second round of preliminary firing.

Vic Reinders, 54-year-old chemistry professor in the University of Wisconsin's Milwaukee branch, was about to set a mark which has eluded all other clay target experts.

When he finishes today's 16-yard 100-target race, he will have fired at 99,950 clays since he started in 1934. The fact that he has broken better than 98 per cent of these 16-yard targets puts him in a class by himself.

With the completion of the first 50 of Sunday's 200-target race, Reinders will become the first ever to fire at 100,000 targets with an average of less than two misses per 100.

He broke 100 straight Friday as the Roaring Grand opened.

Firing through Sunday is in a tuneup for championship races starting Monday and running through next Saturday.

Ohio Girl, 17, Nipped, 1 Up, In Golf Finals

SEATTLE (AP) — A week ago Mary Lowell was just another 17-year-old golfer. Today she headed for nearby Tacoma, Wash., and the National Women's Amateur tournament as recognized princess of the American links.

Mary, a high school senior at Hayward, Calif., defeated Margaret (Maggie) Martin of St. Clairsville, Ohio, 1 up Friday in the 18-hole finals of the National Junior Girls tournament.

Miss Martin, who will enroll at DePaul University this fall, also will play in the USGA women's event which opens a six-day run Monday.

Playing for the first time in a national tourney, Miss Martin had come from behind to win most of her matches and she nearly pulled this one out, too, with a closing challenge. She went three down in the first seven holes, then steadied to win two when Miss Lowell wandered.

Mary had her 3-up margin back by the 14th hole, but again Miss Martin rallied to win two. They halved the 17th but on the closing green Maggie missed a four-foot putt while Miss Martin calmly knocked down a two-footer for the half that clinched the match.

Ohio's Athletic Assn. Refuses To OK All-Star Tilts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio High School Athletic Association, though it has no jurisdiction to approve or disapprove all-star high school football or basketball games involving graduated students, will not officially sanction such contests, the group's board of control says.

The board Friday thus reaffirmed its stand of last Feb. 24. It explained that it gave the nod to this year's all-star games to protect eligibility of the boys participating. The NCAA has indicated that an all-star player's college athletic eligibility could be endangered by such postseason play.

In other actions, the board accepted Admiral King High School of Lorain to association membership; recommended that all football players wear a satisfactory mouthguard, and approved a basketball rules clinic in Columbus Nov. 19.

Others treated yesterday were Rollie Barnes, 48, of 162 Ravine St., injured right knee in a fall; Shelby Yost, 20, of 9th St., Chester, wound and bruises of the index finger of the left hand which was caught in a drawer at work at the Hancock County Federal Savings & Loan Association.

A stone was removed from the nostril of Lonnie Lawrence, 3, son of Mrs. Shirley Lawrence of E. 4th St., who lodged it while playing.

Another Continuance Given In Title Case

Because a relative is seriously ill in Georgia, S. T. Hopper, 255 W. 7th St., has been granted a continuance until Sept. 18 on a charge of failing to deliver an auto title.

Hopper was scheduled for a hearing Monday on the charge to which he pleaded guilty July 11. The charge was filed by George Sisco, 930 Florence St., who alleged Hopper sold him a 1953 auto on May 15 for $25 but failed to turn over the title certificate.

Hopper was granted a continuance until July 25 by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff to straighten out the mixup, but appeared in court then and won another continuance until Monday when he explained he still had been unable to secure the title to the auto which was registered in South Carolina.

Move For Extension Senate Struggle Looms Over Rights Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission threatens to touch off a free-for-all in the Senate Monday.

Senate leaders will attempt then to suspend the rules and hook onto a $741 million appropriation bill for the State and Justice departments a measure to continue the commission for two years beyond Nov. 9. Without the legislation the commission would go out of business.

Sens. Mike Mansfield of Montana and Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Democratic and Republican leaders, filed notice today night they will move for suspension of the rules when the money measure is brought up.

French, Tunisian Forces Clash In Bizerte Sector

TUNIS (AP) — French paratroopers clashed today with hundreds of Tunisians attempting to break through barbed wire barricades around the French-held sector of Bizerte, the Tunisian radio reported.

The government radio said paratroopers hurled incendiary bombs and beer bottles to hold back the crowds.

"Blood has flowed," shouted the radio announcer.

Telephoned reports from the port city said the crowd of demonstrators appeared to be dwindling and there seemed little chance they would cut through the barbed wire.

The Tunisians turned out in response to a call by President Habib Bourguiba for peaceful demonstrations against the continuing occupation of Bizerte. French troops fought their way into the city last month after Tunisians tried to blockade France's naval-air base nearby.

Runaway Bride-To-Be Reunited With Papa

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A runaway bride-to-be, happily reunited with her father, headed for her Miami, Fla., home today uncertain whether she can pick up the threads of her romance.

"I might go to Europe," said honey-haired Gigi Gorman, 18, Friday. "At any rate the wedding is postponed and there is no future date set."

Gigi left home Tuesday night, on the eve of her planned swank wedding to Robert M. Oliver III, 19, Miami.

She was stopped by a state trooper near Columbia Friday morning after a stolen car report was put out.

Tri-State Firemen To Honor Ex-Officers

Plans to honor past presidents of the Tri-State Firemen's Association were made at a meeting of the group Thursday evening at the Industry hall.

Homer Cronin, president, said all past presidents are to attend the next meeting at the Lawrenceville fire station when they will be presented pins. The date will be announced.

Allen Goodwin was appointed acting secretary in the absence of Fred Fryman, secretary, who is now in Illinois. About 37 attended and refreshments were served by the Industry firemen.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Booklet Helps Child With Arithmetic

A lot of useful fun may be had with a ruler, pair of compasses and paper by children over six or eight, Scout groups, even a whole family — especially good for long summer days. The public, growing aware of mathematics, is also aware that children can derive basic mathematical principles much earlier than they have supposed.

With a little guidance, children can very early find out for themselves many basic principles of geometry, even long before they ever hear the word geometry or mathematics. Dr. Ali Amir-Moez of Purdue University has lately prepared a booklet entitled "Ruler, Compasses, Fun". Nine by eleven inches, this 31-page booklet has simple directions and drawings.

ALMOST ANY one who can read may easily follow at constructing with accuracy simple geometric figures and discover for himself amazing facts about the value of these figures and their parts. (The booklet may be had for 65 cents from Lafayette Printing Company, Lafayette, Indiana.)

Many a boy or girl with this booklet in hand will find hours of intriguing creative fun, even if arithmetic had been difficult. Scores of teen-agers will be lured by this simple, self-teaching booklet into wanting to go further in mathematics.

With the help of this unusual booklet, any dad or mother may be as much amazed, on following the instructions for making

FOLLOWING THE clear directions and good illustrations, one may also construct an equilateral triangle, honeycomb and Persian mosaic; draw a perpendicular to a line at a point, bisect a line segment, bisect an angle, construct a regular pentagon and the stars on the flag — just to name a few things usually not done until a formal course in geometry is pursued. And, mind you, it is not guessing; it is measuring with precision, and not with a ruler but with compasses!

Dr. Amir-Moez says in the foreword that he prepared his booklet at the suggestion of the late Garry C. Meyers, Jr., then publisher of "Highlights for Children".

The reason for the suggestion was that "Highlights for Children", a magazine for children three to 12 years of age, has carried from time to time a number of simple features by Dr. Amir-Moez on basic principles of plane geometry which children even of the middle elementary grades can work out with success and satisfaction.

To illustrate: by cutting up the pieces of paper making the three angles of any triangle, the child discovers these three angles fit together on a straight line totaling two right angles, and that the angles of any four-sided figure fit together to make a circle, totaling four right angles.

The Weather Bureau operates under the Department of Commerce.

15 Candidates Meet With GOP Committee

Fifteen city candidates in the November general election attended a meeting with the executive committee of the East Liverpool Area Men's Republican Club Friday night at Tice's Restaurant when a membership drive was discussed.

Further plans for the drive will be made at the next meeting of the committee and candidates, which will be announced, Sam Webber, president, said.

Candidates have been requested to be at the GOP booth at the Columbiana County Fair "East Liverpool Day" Friday.

Further plans were discussed for the fall campaign. About 25 attended.

Mt. Union Professor To Conduct Research

ALLIANCE, Ohio — Prof. Ray W. Diehl of Mount Union College has been granted a sabbatical leave for the first semester of the 1961-62 school year to accept a research award from the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

Diehl, associate professor of accounting and business administration, will conduct independent research into the integration of accounting reports with a program utilizing electronic data processing.

The research grant, first in accounting to be awarded by Ohio Bell, includes an orientation period at the Cleveland main office, with the actual research to be done in Akron.

$137 In Cash Taken At Golf Club Entry

LISBON — Some $137 in cash was taken at the Sleepy Hollow Golf Course on the Homeworth-Alliance Rd., southeast of Alliance, early Thursday, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan. Deputy Howard Gray said entry was made through a hayloft door—the clubhouse is a converted barn.

Wade Schaefer of the Schaefer Ford Garage on Route 45 north of Salem reported that the trunk of a new Falcon on his lot was pried open and a spare tire and rim taken sometime early Wednesday. This was the third such theft, Schaefer said.

A Love Quiz for Husbands & Wives

By EUGENE D. FLEMING

This special quiz not only tests how well you understand the language of love but offers you a chance to enrich that language in your marriage

MOST MARRIAGES would be much happier," says psychologist Eric Riss, "if only husbands and wives better understood each other's special language of love."

The trouble is, most couples don't understand this "special language" of marriage. Its idiom, unlike that of romance, is unspectacular, even quite mundane—yet it exists, or can exist. But you have to recognize it.

A wife serves her husband his favorite dish once a week and thus says, wordlessly, "I love you." The chances are he doesn't recognize this gesture for what it is. After all, she cooks every night and makes this meal once a week. What's wonderful in that?

The key, but seldom asked, question is: Why is he or she doing this? Nine times out of ten the only possible answer is—"Because of love for me."

To find out just how well you and your spouse are communicating emotionally, look at these two lists of everyday deeds that well might include unrecognized expressions of love in your own marriage. The lists were compiled from suggestions by marriage counselors. One is for husbands, the other for wives.

First, the wives. In the left-hand boxes, check the items on your list which are currently part of your vocabulary of love; next check items on the "Husbands" list which you recognize as expressions of his love.

Husbands do the same, using the right-hand boxes in both lists. To insure against self-deception, cover your wife's marks with a sheet of paper.

The scoring is explained at the bottom of the lists. But this is more than just another game or test. Look upon it as a love letter. The checks—or lack of them—will tell you and your mate about the depth and breadth of your marital love and, more important, the possibilities of enriching it.

Roz Russell portrays elderly widow from Brooklyn in new film, "Majority of One."

MOVIES

That Versatile Roz Russell

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

FOUR-YEAR-OLD LANCE ran up to his mother when he arrived home from nursery school. "I know who you are!" he cried. "You're Rosalind Russell, the movie star!"

Miss Russell was disturbed. She had tried to shield her son from the heady glamour of Hollywood. "What's a movie star?" she asked hesitantly.

"I don't know," shrugged Lance and dashed off to play.

That was in 1947, when Rosalind Russell was at the top of her career. Even before Lance was born, Roz had won an Academy Award nomination for "My Sister Eileen." Later, four more nominations came—"Sister Kenny," "Mourning Becomes Electra," "Picnic," and "Auntie Mame." But convincing as she is on screen, she is equally successful as a wife and mother.

Her success—at home as well as at work—can be traced directly to her versatility in adapting to anything on which she sets her mind.

After she finished the highly successful "Auntie Mame," she couldn't get excited about any other roles—till "Majority of One" came along. When she agreed to play the part of the middle-aged Mrs. Jacoby from Brooklyn, who falls in love with a Japanese played by Alec Guinness, she prepared herself for the job with typical Rosalind Russell enthusiasm.

"It wasn't just a matter of being grayed down, padded in the right places, and acquiring a middle European-Brooklyn accent. I had to be able to think and feel like Mrs. Jacoby, or I'd become merely a caricature of her."

To be convincing, Miss Russell spent three months browsing through Brooklyn delicatessens and department stores and squeezing into crowded Bronx subways.

THE RESULT is a characterization which may win her another Academy Award nomination—and possibly a long-overdue Oscar. "I certainly wouldn't turn it down," Roz says, "but I'm conditioned to setbacks."

Actually, Roz has had few disappointments in her life. She decided on an acting career in her teens while attending private schools. Her parents were well-to-do New Englanders who hoped she'd "get it out of her system," but she never did, even during some harrowing years in summer stock and road companies, and on Broadway.

Her first months in Hollywood were not notable either, but producers were beginning to recognize her magic. Soon her roles became more important, and with "The Women" she burst into stardom. The film also influenced her private life.

Fred Brisson, son of Danish actor Carl Brisson, was crossing the Atlantic on a liner whose sole entertainment was one film—"The Women." It was run several times each day, and although Brisson refused to see it, he couldn't help hearing the constant chatter of one of the actresses coming from the theater. Finally he gave up and looked in on the film. The chatty actress was Roz Russell, and she fascinated him. When he reached Hollywood, he asked his friend Cary Grant to introduce him.

"I'll either kill or marry that gabby woman," he promised. He chose marriage.

BY THE END of the 1940s, Roz was beginning to think she'd had it in Hollywood. Somewhere along the line she had been typecast as a career girl—"Live, Love, and Learn," "Man Proof," "Fast and Loose," and "His Girl Friday" were among the 26 films of this type she made.

"I had two choices: stay in a deadly rut or make a drastic change," she recalls.

She decided on the latter, but it was typical that she had no illusions about making a big hit on Broadway without adequate preparation. "I'd been away from the stage for 18 years, so I decided to try a road tour first to get the feel of things again."

Roz quickly discovered she not only had a feel for the audience but a good grip on them in "Bell, Book, and Candle." When she was offered "Wonderful Town" on Broadway, she took the plunge in spite of the fact that she had a very unmusical voice. "I don't sing—I gargle," she says.

The show—a musical version of her old film, "My Sister Eileen"—ran 15 months. After that came 508 performances of "Auntie Mame," for which Roz was so perfectly cast that most people still equate the two. She admits there are similarities. "She enjoyed living, and so do I. And we both enjoy people."

And that's as good a reason as any why audiences enjoy Auntie Mame—and Roz Russell as well.

An enterprising youngster went from door to door soliciting neighbors for business. "I walk dogs," he explained. "Walking a small dog around the block costs a dime. For a medium-sized dog it's 15 cents. And for a big dog the charge is a nickel."

Civil Defense authorities held a mass meeting to advise citizens how to protect themselves in case of a bombing attack. After a long talk about the chances of survival at a distance from a bomb blast, the speaker concluded by saying, "However, if you are directly under the falling bomb at ground zero, you have no chance at all."

A man in the front row turned ashen and began to tremble and whimper. "Heavens, sir," the speaker said, "why are you worrying? Don't you realize the chances are 5 million to one that you won't be a victim?"

up to him to figure out how to get attention, just like the rest of us.

Perhaps because we didn't buy dogs we had no sense of owning them. They lived with us, which is quite a different thing. In those days, free enterprise applied to man and dog alike, and while the dog-catcher existed, he stood between the income-tax collector and the public executioner in the regard of his fellow citizens. It is not surprising that his heart was not in his work. Like the rest of us, he himself had a sneaking suspicion that there was something shameful in his calling; that life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness had been guaranteed to dogs, too, in the Declaration of Independence.

Theirs was a glorious liberty. Once outside the house, they could be themselves. If they chased cats, that was the cats' problem. They could roll in whatever they pleased—although their chances of getting back in the house depended on their choice in this matter. (We believed in a dog's right not to bathe.) They could eat whatever struck them as appetizing; we never assumed that dead squirrels were unpalatable just because they didn't appeal to us. If a dog chose to spend a week in pursuit of a lady friend, he was at liberty to do so. No one asked him how he spent his time. He could have a night out with the boys any time he pleased or join his pals on a nature hike in the woods. The only thing we wouldn't tolerate was a dog who didn't know his place.

Once we were falsely accused of harboring such a dog. This was a German shepherd named Herman, who some of our friends insisted was putting on unbecoming airs. However, Hermie did not think he was a person; he simply thought he was the best shortstop we had, and so did we. He could field anything and what was more, he could get the ball over to first more unerringly than any of us could throw it. Sometimes visiting teams protested that he was acting above his station.

"Baseball is for people," they would say. "Show me the rule that says dogs can't play," my brother would demand.

So Hermie played, until his enthusiasm ran away with him. When he began to help us by grabbing runners' legs in his jaw, we had to submit to public opinion.

What none of us realized was that even then there were kennel clubs and breeders who supervised the production of dogs of dependable lineage. Oh, we'd heard of such things, but their significance simply hadn't seeped down through the social fabric to our level. The dogs we knew didn't take themselves seriously. They weren't asked to be handsome, and blood lines were determined by the first person to look over a litter. If the verdict was collies, collies they were. And an enterprising bitch might well, with her next litter, produce dachshunds.

Well, we know better now. When, after Beans' demise, we decided we needed a replacement, I approached the milkman. To my astonishment, he told me he knew of no uncommitted dogs along his entire route. However, when he came to think of it, he believed Mrs. Blank had some puppies to dispose of. I called Mrs. Blank.

"Three hundred for the males, $250 for the females," she said.

"Three hundred for—heavens!" I gasped. "I just wanted a dog."

"These are dogs," she informed me, crisply. "African wart hog terriers. Very rare."

I told her a wart hog terrier wouldn't find much to do at my place, and began answering ads. For sums of money ranging up to $500, I found I could have any number of authentic dogs, and with papers to prove it.

Then I left some steak bones on the back steps, and in three days the only dog that showed up was a poodle wearing a red leather collar and carrying an I.D. card. A faint odor of Chanel No. 5 clung to her. Subsequent incidents convinced me that these days even beagles wear dog tags and keep regular hours.

EVEN if the seller honors credit cards, I don't want to buy a dog. If I buy a dog, I'll think I own it. It'll be property, an investment. I'll worry about him if he stays out all night. I'll have his tonsils removed. I won't let him take his chances with trespassing dogs—they might spoil his looks. And if he goes off into the woods after a deer, I'll go after him; he might get lost. Pretty soon, he'll be so jumpy he'll start nipping guests, and I'll fling my arms around him and ask them what they've done to upset him.

"Eustace is so sensitive," I'll tell them. "He's just like a person."

MODERN DOGS must have been evolving for a long time, but I didn't find out about it until just recently.

We had been making do with the same old dog for 15 years or so. And then Beans, who persistently failed to understand that his courting days were over, succumbed in an argument over a lady. We buried him with military honors, mourned him for a decent period.

Soon, however, we were face to face with the problem of all dogless households: how do you get rid of the bones?

For a while we and the neighbors surreptitiously tossed them back and forth over the fence, but clearly this was no long-range solution. We agreed that we must find a replacement for Beans. And that's how I discovered what's been going on. You know how to get a dog today? You go to a kennel, choose one, and pay money for him!

them went upstairs and fetched your slippers, so things balanced out.

The family dog of my childhood was an unquenchable individualist with a robust pioneering streak. True, he might be an itinerant, but in the best sense of the word: you might call him a hobo, but you didn't call him a bum. He could—and did—put his whole heart into leading a dog's life, and we respected him for it.

By comparison, the modern dog is pathetic. He hasn't a shred of pride; he wears a dog tag; he has a pedigree; he gets strep throat. Instead of scraps, he eats a meticulously balanced diet. He has an annual physical checkup. Instead of Spot and Fido, he is named things like Eustace and Carole, and like the rest of the population he thinks of a doghouse only as a symbol of disgrace: he sleeps in his own—or his owner's—bed.

In fact, he lives indoors, which means that

In the Good Old (Dog) Days

Remember the mutts

of yore—those independent creatures who accepted your hospitality without taking over the entire house?

By JANET AGLE

When we were growing up, the dogs we had were the ones who shopped around and made their own arrangements for food and lodging. A would-be dog harbinger just worked things out informally with whatever animal was available and willing. A few steak bones on the doorstep would usually turn up a crop of candidates—or, if one were impetuous, one could notify the milkman, who would bring a dog on the next delivery. The milkman always had the latest figures on the canine birth rate and was in a unique position to know when and where dogs were "at liberty."

Most of us did not require his services. Applicants came by in a steady stream. If a dog seemed like a good guy, you asked him in, named him Rover, and waited around to see if he'd live up to it. If he didn't, you just settled down in accordance with an unwritten agreement that existed between dogs and people.

The terms were clear.

You contracted either to provide him with table scraps or to give him access to the neighbors' garbage pails. You built him a doghouse or else turned over to him a dry spot under the kitchen steps. In return, he agreed to guard the family silver, rescue you when the house caught fire, keep strangers at bay, and snatch children from danger.

Some dogs went much farther and kept the mailman, the grocery boy, and the ice-man at bay, too. On the other hand, lots of he has had to be re-educated for life in the drawing room. He must speak softly and wipe his feet on the door mat and take baths. He must tolerate cats, hamsters, pet mice, and other affronts to nature. His companions must be carefully chosen from among the socially impeccable and flealess. "He's more than just a dog," his owner tells you, proudly. "He's just like a person!"

MY FATHER once remarked rather bleakly that dogs stuck to us as flies do to flypaper—but although he recognized this fact early, somehow he never found the peace that comes with resignation. Even so, we were governed by Father's Law any time a stray turned up at the kitchen door. We were restricted to a cheery hello, a pat on the head, and a polite but firm suggestion that he go back where he came from. No moans of pity were permitted if it was cold; no cries of agony if his ribs looked like a picket fence. But the moment Father's air-cooled Franklin had purred down the driveway, Mother would lead the sprint to the kitchen door.

"Poor little thing," she would croon. "Oh, he's shivering! Let's just bring him in for a minute and give him some warm milk."

Many of the dogs who were thus invited to dine stayed on. Father had to be handled carefully for several days, but soon the newcomer was one of the family, and it was

"Pull him off the controls," Larry shouted. But the pilot's dead weight was forcing the plane into a terrifying dive.

I FLEW WITH DEATH a few weeks ago. It all started as a lighthearted vacation trip. Six of us—five men and myself—were going to Los Cruces, Mexico, for a few days of fishing.

We all met at the Burbank, Calif., airport about 1:30 a.m. on May 18 to start the trip. The reason for the departure time was to permit our pilot, Jim Brummett, to rest after finishing work at the airport that afternoon.

In addition to the pilot, the occupants of the plane included my husband's business associate Larry Slaten; his younger brother Sheldon; his brother-in-law Joseph Koch; my husband Will, and myself.

We were all in good spirits as we boarded the plane. There was no premonition of trouble. The plane was a Twin Beechcraft, owned by my husband's company. Although the company didn't employ a full-time pilot, Jim did most of the flying for it whenever he was needed. None of the rest of us knew anything about the mechanics of flying an airplane.

The first 15 minutes of the flight were uneventful. The night was crisp and clear. We got off the ground about 2:10 a.m., and I could see the Los Angeles environs unfolding beneath me.

Our first warning of danger was a sudden, violent oscillation of the plane. We were cruising smoothly at 9,000 feet when the plane began to buck—a sharp downward movement, then a violent pull-up, repeated again and again. Larry was sitting up front in the copilot's seat. Joe was behind him, and I was behind Joe. Sheldon and Will were lined up behind the pilot. I saw Will look alarmed as Larry said, "Come here, Will." There was a frightening edge in his voice.

As Will unbuckled his safety belt, the movements became more violent, then steadied off in an abrupt dive. I could hear a different whoosh of air outside. My ears began to ring. Then Larry's voice came again, this time louder and more urgent.

"Will," he said, "get up here!"

Pilotless—and 9,000 Feet Up!

I could see the pilot slumped helplessly over the controls. Jim was a moderately heavy man, and his full weight had fallen forward on the wheel, forcing the plane into a dive that was picking up momentum every instant.

The next few seconds are jumbled to me. I remember only impressions: Joe sitting bolt upright in his seat and asking, "What can I do?" And I heard myself say, "Stay calm. Just stay calm." Joe slumped in his seat and tightened his belt—a position in which he remained without saying a word for the rest of those terrifying hours.

There were Larry and Sheldon both shouting incoherent words and Will desperately trying to pull the unconscious pilot off the controls while Larry, his knuckles shining white with the pressure of his effort, hauled back on the wheel with all his strength, trying to loosen Jim's grip.

But the dive continued and accelerated. I prayed. Larry was screaming now, "Pull him off the controls," and I saw Will reluctantly draw back his fist and crash it into Jim's jaw. He waited a few seconds, then hit him again. And again.

My husband is a gentle man; he told me later this was one of the most difficult things he had ever done. But even the blows, progressively harder, failed to break Jim's hold on the wheel. Then, in utter desperation, Will did a strange thing. He leaned over the pilot and bit him on the cheek.

That did it. Jim relaxed his hold on the controls, and Will locked his arms around the pilot in a bear hug and held him away from the wheel. Jim appeared to be in a coma. His eyes were closed, and he was foaming a little at the mouth.

We had descended to 7,000 feet when Jim relaxed on the wheel. Larry was pulling back so hard that the plane shot almost straight up into the air. I've been told since that we must have stalled at the top of this abrupt climb. At any rate, the plane lost speed quickly, shuddered, and fell off—but miraculously Larry seemed to have control of it. He had no idea what the air speed should be or even where the air-speed indicator was located. He knew nothing about rudder control. He knew only that pulling the wheel back sent us up and pushing it forward thrust us down. And he

OUR PILOT COLLAPSED AT THE CONTROLS!

And none of us knew how to fly!

A woman passenger relives the gripping story of a flight that only a miracle could save By HELEN WEISS as told to Joseph N. Bell

knew he could turn the plane by turning the wheel in the direction he wanted to go.

We were approaching the edge of the Los Angeles basin, surrounded by mountains that peaked considerably higher than we were flying. The pilot was completely out, but his behavior was unpredictable. When Will let go for a second to come over to me and say: "If you've ever prayed, pray now. I don't see how we can possibly get out of this alive," we saw Jim unconsciously grope at the controls, and Will once again had to pry him loose and hold him tightly.

Then, unexpectedly, came the greatest crisis of all—one that threatened, for a breathless instant, to break the determination of our little group to survive. Two bright red lights suddenly glowed on the instrument panel. In that darkened cockpit, they stood out like a theater marquee in a coal mine. We knew they must mean something ominous. But what?

"God, Please Help Us"

We were staring at them hypnotically, wondering what new danger they portended, when one of the motors went out. Just like that. Quietly, softly. These four men who had been struggling so zealously, each in his own way, to survive against enormous odds were completely, deathly quiet for the first time. A whole malevolent instrument panel full of levers and switches glared at them.

Which one to pull? And for what purpose?

I remember thinking, God, please, please show us what to do. Show us now. Now!

The answer came in a miraculous way. The pilot, still unconscious, reached forward with his limp hand. Will relaxed his hold, and the pilot's hand went unerringly to a switch. He didn't open his eyes, didn't look, didn't give any other indication that he had regained consciousness. But he did turn the right switch, and the dead engine coughed and sputtered and then—wonderfully—cut in again. We found later that we had exhausted the gasoline in one tank and that the lights were a warning to switch tanks. That's what Jim had done. He had only a minute and a half to make the switch before losing the engine completely. And he did it while totally unconscious.

After that, I knew we would find our way out. But we seemed only to plunge from one emergency into another. Will was still talking constantly in Jim's ear, and Sheldon was darting from one window to the other looking for mountains and telling Larry when to turn to avoid them. As Sheldon flitted about, I heard him say over and over, "Gotta have nine lives. Gotta have nine lives."

We had been up almost two hours now, and on the surface the situation seemed hopeless. The gas supply would be running low soon, and none of us had the vaguest notion of how to land the airplane or even how to operate the radio to call for help.

Then Jim stirred!

He opened his eyes and closed them again, and my husband's voice in his ear became more urgent. "My wife is sick, Jim," he said. "We must get her down right away. Let's take her down, Jim boy."

The pilot opened his eyes again and looked about him dazedly. "March Field is below us, Jim," Will said. "Let's put it down there." The pilot shook his head languidly.

"Why not, Jim?"

"Gotta go to Palm Springs."

These were the first words the pilot had spoken in two hours, and he said them sluggishly, like a man under sedation.

Will argued and pleaded while Larry continued to skid the plane about in rough circles over the lights we tried to keep constantly beneath us. Jim didn't seem to hear Will. He kept insisting that we had to land at Palm Springs. This meant flying through a canyon between two mountain ranges. However, we had little choice but to give him his head. So we changed direction. Jim was controlling the plane now in a near-mechanical way. Larry's hands hovered over the wheel on his side, and Will stood behind the pilot to pull him off the controls if he passed out again.

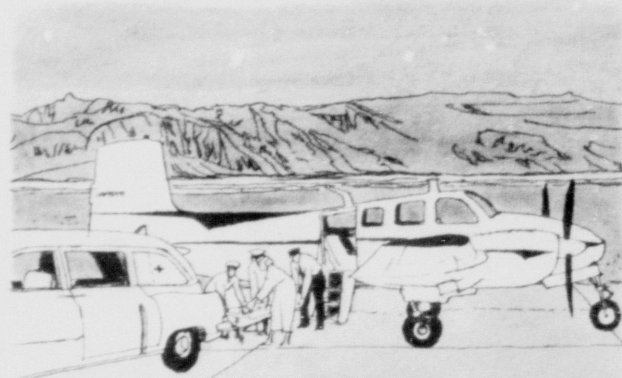

In this uncomfortable state, we navigated the canyon, circled lazily over the airfield at Palm Springs several times, then landed so gently that for an instant the whole two hours seemed like nothing more than a bad dream.

On the ground, Larry called the police to let civilian air officials know we were safe. Jim was sent to a hospital. He remembered nothing of what went on in the plane before regaining consciousness, but his bruised and battered face gave visible evidence of Will's reluctant assault.

When Jim had gone, the rest of us stood mute for almost a half-hour. We had looked at death. Not a quick, merciful look but a long and agonizing one. None of us will be the same again.

I asked Sheldon how many of his nine lives were left. He looked at me quizzically and answered: "I used them all up. Now you'll have to tell me how to preserve the tenth."

I can't speak for the others, but I know this for sure: that a Power much greater than us saved us in that airplane. The hand that turned the gas-tank switch was more than the reflex of an unconscious mortal. It was the answer to a fervent and consecrated prayer.

After miraculously landing the plane, the half-dazed pilot was rushed to a nearby hospital.

NEW Slimtex^{*}
*T.M. REG. U. S. PATENT OFF

FLATTENS FRONT
 Slims waist
 Gently compresses back

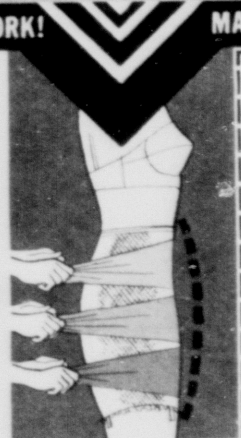

Slimtex with its revolutionary new design flattens out the waist and abdomen evenly and pushes the bulge back in where it belongs and not from one place to another. The tummy requires more hold-in in some areas and less in others. We designed Slimtex with variable stretch V panels—each having a different stretch to take care of the needs of each part of the abdomen. Those areas requiring more hold-in get a firmer V panel—those requiring less get a more flexible V panel. The result is an exciting and amazing new belt which for the first time really gives you a truly flat front, nips the waist and holds the back together firmly, but without constriction. You'll feel so comfortably light on your feet.

ONLY $4.95
 waist sizes 22 to 37

$5.95 for waist sizes 38 and up

HOW VARIABLE STRETCH PANELS WORK!

Imagine 3 pair of hands (see illustration) each holding a V shaped panel stretched across your abdomen. One pair of hands pull harder where there is more bulge. A second pair of hands pull another panel but less firmly. A third pair of hands now pull on the third panel they are holding but these pull just hard enough to even out what the other hands have re-distributed.

YOU NOW FEEL WONDERFUL—your own self again. Back, abdominal bulge and waist are properly and firmly but comfortably held-together. You feel so good and look inches slimmer. Once you slip into a Slimtex you'll never wear another belt. No steels, bones or buckles.

Pebble Pitch

By Bess A. Lee

To play this game almost anywhere outdoors, you need three flat, smooth stones and lots of little pebbles. Draw faces on the three stones. Make one with a big grin, one with mouth turned down, and one with closed eyes. Use a colored crayon. Name them Happy, Droopy, and Snoozy. Now line up the players eight feet away. Give each player six pebbles, and let them take turns trying to hit Happy, Droopy, and Snoozy, scoring in that order 50, 25, or 10.

Who, What, When, Where?

By Evelyn Pickering

Give each boy and girl an old magazine and a pencil. At a signal, each player circles all the words, "who," "what," "when," and "where." At the end of 10 minutes, count the circled words. "Who," "what," "when" count five points each. "Where" counts 10. Highest score wins.

Party Basketball

By Bob Besch

This game tests the skill of adults as well as youngsters. You need a ping-pong ball, a piece of heavy cardboard or plywood, and five oatmeal boxes. Slice off bottom ends of oatmeal boxes to make five "baskets" about four inches deep. Tack them to the playing board and hang it on a wall or prop it up at table height. Number each basket as shown.

Players stand at least 10 feet from the board (closer for the little players) and take three throws to score the highest number of baskets they can. After each player has had 10 chances, the scores are totaled and the highest score wins.

Party Basketball can also be played by teams. In this case, team members combine their final scores for the highest team total.

Hitting the basket seems easy enough—until you try it!

Burst the Balloon!

By Ragna Eskil

Props: dart board, darts, and balloons. Have each player rub an inflated balloon against his clothing for a minute. Static will make the balloon adhere to the dart board. When all balloons are in place, blindfold each player in turn and let him try to puncture a balloon with a dart. He gets only one try if he succeeds; otherwise, he may have three tries. The one who bursts a balloon on the first try wins.
